UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly agreed Monday to hold another election behind the scenes to avoid a U.S. challenge to the voting rights of France and Russia.

Contests are between Gabon and Guinea for the economic and social council; Brazil and Colombia for the budget and advisory committee; and Czechoslovakia and Belgium for the board of auditors. Balloting is at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

U.S. Planes Blast Red Camps

IT'S EYE FOR AN EYE IN NORTH VIET NAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—American and South Vietnamese warplanes rained bombs on Communist military camps in North Viet Nam again Monday amid signs of a strike-for-strike policy in the battle against Communist guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam.

U.S. congressional leaders indicated President Johnson and the National Security Council had decided to answer with air assaults any new Communist attacks on U.S. troops or installations in South Viet Nam.

While they would not talk for quotation, this clearly was their understanding after Johnson said his senior advisers "not a report from McGeorge Bundy, a presidential aide who returned Sunday night from a special mission to South Viet Nam."

Monday's second wave of retaliatory action against North Viet Nam—the first attack was Sunday—left in flames Communist installations in three villages near the southern border.

49 American Planes

In Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, Kosygin said the Soviet Union supports the Viet Cong guerrillas fighting U.S.-backed government troops in South Viet Nam.

At least 24 South Vietnamese planes and four U.S. jets carried out Monday's raid, on the heels of Sunday's attack by 49 American warplanes.

Johnson's senior advisers and Republican and Democratic congressional leaders heard in White House secrecy the report of Bundy who is Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs.

Bundy, dispatched by the president before the new crisis began, was in South Viet Nam Saturday when Communist guerrillas assaulted a U.S. base at Pleiku, 240 miles north of the capital.

U.S. School Closed

In Saigon, the school for American children closed its doors and dependents of U.S. personnel prepared to leave. Their orderly evacuation was ordered Sunday by President Johnson.

The first of 1,819 women and children will leave by commercial airliner today.

The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders, who sat in on the security council meeting, underscored their support of Johnson's stand.

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.) said Johnson seeks to achieve stability, if possible, "so the South Vietnamese government can manage its own affairs within South Viet Nam."

"We're going to carry out our South Viet Nam our initial purpose and objective of aiding these people to retain their freedom," said Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep., Ill.).

The crisis and Johnson's orders to meet it appeared to have derailed a massive Republican attack on his policies in Southeast Asia.

U.S. officials said the Sunday air raiders slipped three targets because they were "veiled by clouds. Monday's followup assault apparently a quest shed them."

The Pentagon said one U.S. navy jet was lost Sunday.

Veteran Astronaut Heads Gemini Crew

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Air Force Maj. L. Gordon Cooper, the most seasoned American space traveller, and Navy Lt.-Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. were selected Monday to fly a seven-day Gemini space flight.

Chosen as the backup crew were two civilians—Neil A. Armstrong and Elliott M. S. Jr. Both are former navy pilots. Cooper was a member of the original seven-man Mercury astronaut crew.

To Make It Look Better

Bennett Accused of Padding His Account of 1965 Budget

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett was accused in the legislature Monday of padding figures and shuffling percentages to make his 1965 budget look better.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said if any company promoter or stock and bond salesman used tactics and figures like that, he would go to jail.

The premier wasn't in the House at the time, and Attorney-General Robert Bonner rose to object.

"The leader of the opposition in his enthusiasm has reflected unfairly upon the premier, and I think he should reconsider," Mr. Bonner said.

Mr. Strachan, however, simply went on with his speech. He said in this budget Mr. Bennett outdid himself in self-delusion.

"He shuffled percentages, percentage of total budget, percentage of total increase, percentage over 1962. He gave all these percentages in a variety of combinations of provincial departments," the opposition leader said.

Waiting Peking Adds Warning

TOKYO (AP)—China coupled a pledge of support for Communist North Viet Nam with a threat Monday: "The U.S. imperialists must understand... the day you extend the aggressive war will be the day you hasten into the grave."

Peking's People's Daily backed up the warning against aggression by saying in an editorial:

"To be frank, we are waiting for you in battle array. If you insist on imposing the war on us, heavy rebuffs are in store for you."

Kosygin Warning

The Soviet government, competing with Peking for friends and influence in Southeast Asia, also condemned the U.S.-South Vietnamese air strikes Sunday and Monday against North Viet Nam.

Premier Kosygin declared at a Soviet embassy reception in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, the situation is "fraught with serious complications, for which the United States of America will bear full responsibility."

The Soviet leader, who pledged Russian aid to North Viet Nam in a speech a few hours before Sunday's air strike

Thrasher-Balcer

Tory Decision Spurs Insults

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard Thrasher, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, and Quebec leader Leon Balcer traded insults Monday about the weekend decision to reject a leadership convention over John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Thrasher, commenting on Mr. Balcer's call Sunday for a scrutiny of leaders fitted in by the national executive, accused the Quebec leader of "despicable treachery" and a lack of guts.

He said to suggest the rejection of a leadership convention ran counter to the trend of the meeting questions the integrity of him and the two other men who made the tabulation.

IN CONFLICT

"While I don't speak for the others, I say to those who make such insinuations and innuendo—they are false, you engage in despicable treachery and undermine confidence in our association and the party as a whole," Mr. Thrasher said.

Informed of Mr. Thrasher's comment, Mr. Balcer shot back: "Poor little boy. If he is so pure why doesn't he publish the figures?"

Party President Dalton K. Camp announced Sunday that a leadership convention had been rejected.

Mr. Balcer, who initiated the move for the executive meeting and wants Mr. Diefenbaker replaced, said the decision was in conflict with the trend of Saturday's meeting.

"I trust Mr. Diefenbaker will have no objection to the examination of the complete figures and the voting slips on which they are based," he said.

DC-7: Tragedy and near-miss

91 Escape Flaming Death

TENERIFE, Canary Islands (UPI)—A chartered DC-7 airliner with 91 people aboard burst into flames Monday after an aborted take-off at Los Rodeos Airport.

Airport officials said the plane was destroyed. Seven people reportedly suffered slight injuries.

Witnesses said the pilot managed to bring the crippled airliner to a halt and "with flames spreading, all passengers and the crew managed to get clear."

The plane was leased to a European charter company, Scanair, by the Scandinavian Airlines System.

In New York, an airline spokesman said there were no Americans or Canadians aboard.

Witnesses said an engine exploded during the take-off. The plane was taking winter tourists back to Copenhagen after a holiday at this Canary Island resort.

One of the plane's two stewards was a Canadian—Judith Ann Durkin, 23, formerly of Ottawa. Other crew members were United States citizens and all passengers were believed U.S. as well.

Miss Durkin lived in Winthrop, Mass., but her parents still live in Ottawa.

Everything About Pat Matched

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—For 13 months the British Army searched for Patrick O'Connor, 20, who deserted while serving with the army catering corps in West Germany in November, 1963.

Finally, through his national health insurance number, they tracked down Patrick O'Connor, 20, working for a London catering firm.

He told them they had the wrong man.

They investigated and every bit of information they uncovered checked with the record of the wanted man, simply reinforcing their conviction they had the right man.

Aside from the fact he had the national health number they were looking for and the same name, records also showed he was born in Southern Ireland and on the same date as the man they wanted.

When O'Connor persisted in his declaration of innocence, they sent him to hospital for a further check.

The medical men found that the fillings in his teeth and a scar on his stomach matched those of the missing O'Connor.

For five days the army was satisfied it had the right man. Then, from Dublin, came word from the mother of soldier O'Connor that her son was there with her and that the man in the guardroom was innocent.

Civilian O'Connor was released. There was no explanation as to how the two O'Connors happened to have the same health card number, a fact which the army spokesman said was "incredible, for a start."

In Dublin, the mother of the original O'Connor said her son came home on leave and "didn't bother to return." He intends to stay there, where the British army cannot touch him.

Peking Adds Warning

said the Soviet Union, China and North Viet Nam do not want war, but it is their duty to "strengthen the might and defensive capacity" of Communist countries.

In Moscow, the government newspaper Izvestia and Radio Moscow told the Russian people belatedly of Kossygin's promise of help for the North Vietnamese.

Reaction Varied

Reaction elsewhere to the American-Soviet Vietnamese air raids ranged from approval, through neutralist caution to notes of outrage.

Britain, Australia, Thailand and Nationalist China were among the first to line up with the U.S. administration's opinion that the air strikes were in essential retaliation for aggression from the north.

Virulic

The most virulic denunciations were made in Hanoi and Peking. The outcry was similar to that in the Gulf of Tonkin crisis last August, when U.S. naval planes raided North Vietnamese torpedo-boat bases in retaliation for what the U.S. said were attacks on American destroyers.

Highlights of opinion in other countries included:

Australia—Foreign Minister Paul Hasluck said in a statement Australia supports the U.S. action as a response to aggression. He said: "The aggressor holds the answer. He either has to stop or be stopped."

Britain—Prime Minister Wilson's government understands and supports U.S. reprisal actions against military targets in North Viet Nam, British officials reported.

Perrault Tells Bennett

Clear Up Letter Mystery

BY GARY OAKES

Liberal leader Ray Perrault has called for a "complete public accounting" of the mystery letter which turned up in the Stonehill case.

Speaking in the budget debate Monday, Mr. Perrault said the incident was "a matter of urgent importance because it relates to the whole question of the security of public business in the premier's office."

The Liberal leader said it must be determined if "influence peddlars are at work in this province."

INKED SIGNATURE

The mystery letter, which bears a signature purporting to be Premier Bennett's, was sent last May to Hial Dorman, an aide to Prime Minister Pearson.

It was on the premier's office stationery and carried the inked signature, "W. A. C. Bennett."

The letter did not mention millionaire promoter Harry Stonehill by name, but the opening paragraph read: "Thanks for your interest in the settlement of our friend in Canada."

FACES CHARGES

Attorney-General Bonner said earlier that in the circumstances, "our friend" was presumed to be Stonehill, who is facing court charges in the U.S. and has been denied residence in Canada.

Mr. Bonner has said the RCMP identified the "true author" of the letter—a Vancouver man—but no charges have been laid.

Mr. Perrault said if the RCMP has evidence implicating a suspect, "the attorney-general of this province has a clear duty to prosecute immediately."

The Liberal leader said the legislature must know how the premier's stationery "found its way into the hands of those unauthorized to use it."

He said he wasn't suggesting there has been any wrongdoing on the part of the premier or the attorney-general.

"I am suggesting that this matter may well be far more serious than anyone realizes."

PRODUCE LETTERS

Mr. Perrault called on the premier to produce any letter he had received from Mr. Stonehill and any correspondence sent to him from Ottawa in the last two days.

During his 90-minute speech, the Liberal leader also asked Premier Bennett for an immediate cut in the province's sales tax to four per cent from five.

He called it an onerous tax which bears hardest on the poor.

SURPLUS GROWING

Mr. Perrault accused Premier Bennett of overestimating government spending and underestimating revenues.

The premier will receive revenues of $480,000,000 for the next fiscal year, Mr. Perrault suggested, not $447,000,000 as predicted in the budget speech.

Should he spend the sum he has estimated, the Liberal leader said, he will have a surplus in the revenue surplus account not of $37,737,859 but something closer to $91,000,000.

Mr. Perrault called the $91,000,000 the "amount by which we are to be overtaxed."

"From the pockets of the poor, the old, the weak and indigent will come the pennies, nickels and dimes to swell the coffers of this arrogant government."

Mr. Perrault called the Brannan Lake Industrial School, the province's only correctional institute for boys, "a reflection of the extremely unsatisfactory conditions which prevail in the juvenile and child welfare field."

The school is overcrowded, the program lacks professional direction, and there is insufficient segregation, he said.

Padding Charged

year is larger than total provincial spending on education in 1951-52.

He said public accounts for that year show total spending on education was $36,002,418, rather than the $17,925,000 figure quoted in Friday's budget.

On Page 50, the budget says education receives 34 per cent of the provincial budget, said Mr. Strachan.

"Included in net expenditure for education is our old friend the homeowner grant," said Mr. Strachan. "But in estimates, Vote 127, we find the homeowner grant listed as grants in aid to local governments."

PHONY, FALSE, UNTRUE

With the help of this kind of padding, said Mr. Strachan, the premier has come up with percentages that are phony, false and untrue.

The opposition leader said the budget shows that while taxes are being loaded onto the back of the average person, the province is at a new high in the province.

RETURNS INADEQUATE

Returns to the Crown from the forest industry, second greatest natural resource in the province, are quite inadequate, said Mr. Strachan.

Meanwhile, the people are being denied adequate medical care, new hospitals, schools and better secondary roads.

Extremely low stumpage charges, said Mr. Strachan, mean that the people of this province are in effect subsidizing industrial giants like MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. which had to borrow only $32,000,000 of the $300,000,000 spent on expansion from 1952 to 1962.

"MAD SCRAMBLE"

"No wonder there is this mad scramble by big corporations to get a stranglehold on the forest of B.C.," he said.

Mr. Strachan quoted from Hansard figures to show Ottawa gets revenues totalling $641,934,000 from B.C. and in return gives this province, in direct and indirect aid, $725,368,000.

But the municipalities are treated in the unfair fashion

Growing Doesn't Cause Pain in a Child's Legs

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: For several months my three-year-old girl has cried because of her legs hurting. My neighbors say it is caused by growing pains. But in the last two months she has been crying during the day as well as at night. She also wakes up at night crying, and a heating pad is all that helps her. The pain is in her knees. Could this be growing pains?—MRK. L.O.

"Growing pains" is a term used to explain any sort of pain in a child which is not easily identified as something else.

It does not hurt anybody to grow. If there is pain, it means that something is wrong.

So now let's divide the pains of children into two separate groups. The incidental pains which don't need any attention, and the serious pains which DO need attention.

TOO TIRED

Children who spend all day running, playing, climbing trees, and the million-and-one other things that active children do, can become overtired. At the end of the day their muscles (especially in the legs) may rebel. The muscles go into spasm (cramps develop) as these youngsters begin to relax. Sooner or later such children learn not to overtire their muscles. They don't drive themselves to the point of cramps. And that's the end of the so-called "growing pains."

But with three-year-olds, it's different. These little ones still have the good sense to sit down and rest when they begin to get tired. Oh, occasionally children of this age become too tense and too tired, and have an occasional muscle cramp shortly after they have been tucked in bed.

NOT CRAMPS

But they don't wake up later in the night crying and they don't cry in the daytime from such cramps.

The aching knees could be arthritis. Arthritis of a certain type (rheumatoid) can attack children as well as adults. Or there could be one of the various bone diseases. These may be a defect in the feet; possibly a calcium deficiency; or there may be a congenital defect which ought to be treated. Lots of things.

So here's my answer:

● There's no such thing as "growing pains."

● Children who are too active can have muscle cramps, and the cure is to see that they have a nap or should we say a "rest period" in the afternoon? to relieve the strain.

● But when children cry, day and night, with a pain, something is wrong. The chances are that it can be corrected, but the child should be taken to a doctor for examination.

There's an old saying, "The best way to duck a job is to do it."

It could be made to read, "The best way to cure a medical trouble is to admit that it is trouble."

PGE Strike Spreads To CNR Yards

VANCOUVER (CP)—A strike of 183 men on the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway spread Monday as Canadian National Railway switch yard crews failed to report for work and the PGE said it planned to lease out 35 of its 42 diesel units.

The government-owned PGE, the province's only north-south rail link, stretching 750 miles to Dawson Creek in the Peace River country did not say to what line the diesel units would be leased. CNR and Canadian Pacific Railway officials said their lines were not involved.

THREATS ALLEGED

The PGE remained strike-bound except for emergency services in isolated areas, with 1,400 of its non-striking workers laid off because of what the railway said were threats.

A total of 86 CNR yard men and yard foremen and two yardmasters said Sunday they would not report.

A CNR spokesman said yard duties are being carried on as much as possible by supervisory and other personnel.

NINE SUSPENDED

The action by the CNR switch crews affecting switch yards on the Vancouver waterfront, the North Shore, New Westminster and Port Mann, followed suspension last week of nine CNR employees. They had refused to handle freight from the strike-bound PGE and their cases now are under consideration by CNR management.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CBRT), to which the striking PGE trainmen and yardmen belong, and which also represents CNR crews, said it did not order the CNR work stoppage.

The trainmen went on strike on the PGE a week ago on the issue of wages and working conditions.

PGE spokesman said leasing of PGE units to other lines who need them is not unusual. But he gave no reason for the large number of diesel units being leased. Neither would he identify the line taking them, but it is believed to be an American line.

Only movement on the PGE at present is a one-car train making daily trips between Squamish, 50 miles north of Vancouver, to Pemberton in the interior Cariboo.

Cheering Sudanese Welcome Elizabeth

KHARTOUM (CP) — Queen Elizabeth arrived today and got perhaps the greatest welcome the Sudan ever has given a visitor.

Thousands of thousands of Sudanese jammed the streets, cheering and chanting and shouting, and pressing so close to the Queen's car that the motorcade from Khartoum airport to the palace where the royal guests are staying repeatedly was halted.

The country had swept a political crisis under the rug to welcome the Queen for a four-day visit. She came here from Ethiopia, where she had spent eight days.

Leaders of Sudan's feuding parties had urged the people to remain calm and give the Queen a warm welcome.

The visit is the first by a reigning British monarch to the Sudan since the Queen's

Nightmare in Museum

Screaming Children See Woman Shot Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—A serene Sunday afternoon in the American Museum of Natural History erupted into a nightmare as an embittered violin maker shot and killed his former wife among the screams of children and their horrified parents.

About 30 persons were in the majestic entrance hall when five shots rang out and Mrs. Gertrude Didenko, 43, slumped to the floor. A trembling onlooker was her 12-year-old daughter, Susan.

The father Dymtro Didenko, 72, described as a master craftsman, was subdued by museum guards and a visitor.

The Russian-born Didenko was charged with homicide. Dark-haired Susan, police said, was a pawn in the severed marriage as her parents argued over custody and visitation rights in court battles dating back to 1957.

Put your best face forward — with good bathroom lighting

A razor nick. A little bit of lipstick in the wrong place. These are the things you can avoid with good bathroom lighting. Good bathroom lighting? It may be as easy as installing a single fixture. Start at the mirror. The light should be on your face, not the mirror. And there should be plenty of it. A single fluorescent strip, correctly placed, will solve this problem. A luminous soffit will do the same job and make your bathroom a little prettier in the bargain.

Expense? Up to you. But it won't cost much, and the payoff comes in solid confidence. In your appearance. In your bathroom's appearance. # United or Untied?

ROME (UPI)—A Rome court has ruled that Italian film star Sophia Loren's Mexican marriage to producer Carlo Ponti was void because he was still legally married at the time to another woman. The decision left the celebrated couple open to prosecution for bigamy.

Ponti, 51, who recently took out French citizenship presumably in the hopes of contracting a valid marriage with Miss Loren, was sure to appeal the decision along with the 30-year-old former Oscar award winner.

The complicated legal triangle began after the couple married by proxy in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 17, 1957. Ponti was previously married in 1946 to Giuliana Flisari, an Italian general's daughter, and the couple had two children. Ponti legally separated from his wife subsequently, but there is no civil divorce granted in Italy.

OTTAWA—A special five-cent stamp honoring the late Sir Winston Churchill will be issued this summer. Postmaster General Nicholson announced. It will be issued Aug. 12, the date in 1941 when Sir Winston and President Franklin Roosevelt signed the Atlantic Charter on a warship off the coast of Newfoundland.

VANCOUVER—Himie Koschov, veteran newspaper man and now a columnist for the Vancouver Province, is the new president of the Newsman's Club of B.C.

LONDON—Lord James Rousell, 16, missing son of the Duke of St. Albans, has telephoned his home to say he was safe, happy and working on a farm in England. A search that police had started on both sides of the English Channel was recalled off. He disappeared two weeks ago from Eton.

REYNOSA, Mexico—Canadian woman bullfighter Carolyn Hayward had a triumphal day in the local arena. Critics reported she was "very brave" and applauded for her performance, followed by a general ovation, awarding of two ears, and tours of the ring on her first bull.

OTTAWA—Defence Minister Hellyer is scheduled to leave for a four-day round of confidential meetings with senior North Atlantic Treaty Organization officials.

EDMONTON—Roger Carriere, a 32-year-old Cree Indian from Le Pas, Man., is King of the North. He won the title at Edmonton's three-day Muk-Luk Mardi Gras, taking first place in square wrestling, snowshoe racing, fish filleting, moose calling and duck and goose calling competitions at the events. He teamed with Gile McEachern of Flin Flon, Man., to win the log sawing contest.

Taylor Laments:

West Still Blind To Real Worth Of Education

VANCOUVER (CP)—Western Canadians still look on universities as an extravagance rather than a national resource, the president of the University of Victoria said here Monday.

Dr. Malcolm Taylor told the Vancouver Institute that western Canadians are finding it difficult to adjust comfortably to modern ways and conditions.

OLD OUTLOOK
"The battle for workmen's compensation, old age pensions and hospital and medical care insurance simply illustrates that we continue to think of the modern economy—in which the majority of our people are precariously dependent on a daily wage—as if it were the old family-based, self-sufficient agrarian economy of 100 years ago," he said.

"We still look on universities as if they were extravagant expenditures and not, as they were now, a major resource yielding as high or even higher rate of return to the economy than any other form of investment a society can make."

NOBLE PURPOSE
Dr. Taylor also said today's "big society" works against the independence and creativity of the individual.

He said many tend to think of education as the means to meet the economy's manpower needs, but "the basic reason is of noble purpose—the fulfillment of the individual's capabilities, hopes and aspirations."

Government Grading Advocated

Government takeover of export lumber grading was urged Monday by E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

In a telegram to Labor Minister Peterson, the labor leader said action by the government "would avert the possibility of a serious tieup of the economy and protect customers from sub-standard products."

KEY POINT
Grading practice is a key point in a current dispute of lumber inspectors that threatens to tie up the province's 20,000-man sawmill industry.

The 276 inspectors earlier rejected a mediation recommendation that would allow mills to lease government grade stamps. The recommendation would prohibit mills doing so if it meant eliminating the job of an inspector.

ECONOMY MENACED
Inspectors rejected this recommendation "because there is no job security in it," said Ron Beaton, president of Local 1-388 International Woodworkers of America (IWA), the inspectors' union.

Mr. O'Neal said the economy of the province is endangered because lumber operators refused to agree on proper standards of grading.

Fraser Rides Out Test Blast

The destroyer escort HMCS Fraser suffered no significant shipboard damage and no injuries to her crew in a 500-ton experimental TNT blast off the Hawaiian Islands Saturday, the navy said Monday.

The Fraser took part in the blast test with two U.S. ships, Atlanta, a decommissioned cruiser and USS Cochran, a guided missile destroyer. The blast was designed to test resistance of ships and their weapons systems to high-energy explosions. Blast site was Kahoolawe Island in the Hawaiian group.

The ships were placed at varying distances off the island. Residents about 10 miles away, on Maui Island, heard the thud of the explosion and saw white and black smoke and flame. No damage was reported.

The project, named Sailor Hat, will include two more blast tests, spaced at approximate two-month intervals.

The Fraser will return to Esquimalt before participating in the next test, tentatively scheduled for April 15.

In charge of the experiment is Rear-Admiral Henry S. Persons, USN.

REGISTERED RETIREMENT SAVINGS PLAN

Save money for retirement tax free!

In our opinion compulsory contributions to the proposed Canada Plan or pension plans set up by any of the provinces will leave ample room for additional tax free savings, before reaching the maximum, for many employed or self-employed Canadians.

A plan embracing a built-in hedge against inflation which we would recommend has many advantages compared to one dependent on fixed interest.

You must act NOW for such a plan to be applicable to your 1964 income. The Savings Plan must be registered before February 28, 1965.

We can offer you worthwhile advice as to how you should make income tax savings enhance your retirement plans. Our managers and staff are available for consultation at any of our offices. We suggest you discuss your ideas with them.

Island Group Urges:

'Help Malaysia'

Canada should offer Malaysia as much military aid as it needs to defend itself against Indonesian attack, say members of a Vancouver Island organization.

The 115-member Vancouver Island branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society voted in Victoria Saturday to approve a resolution calling for a meeting of Canadian and Malaysian military officials.

SENIOR MEMBER

Moved by branch president J. A. A. George, the resolution said Canada should give more support to Malaysia because of Canada's position as "senior member of the Commonwealth."

The resolution noted the step had already been taken by Britain, Australia and New Zealand.

The society has a nationwide membership of more than 2,000 and a total Commonwealth membership of 35,000, said Mr. George.

Fund Growing

A fund to establish a memorial to Indian carver Mungo Martin grew to $2,123.57 Monday with donations received during the weekend.

The fund, started after the famous carver and chief's death, has a target of $5,500.

A $10 donation from the Native Daughters of British Columbia Post No. 3 was added to weekend donations that totalled $78.34.

Donations to the fund are deductible from income tax and may be sent to the Daily Colonist or the Daily Times in Victoria.

Immigration Clears Entry For Infant From Hong Kong

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration department Monday denied a charge by a Vancouver Chinese couple that they have been refused permission to bring their four-month-old daughter, Pauline, to Canada from Hong Kong.

A department spokesman said a cable was sent to the Hong Kong office of the department Friday authorizing entry of the child to Canada as an immigrant.

"We sent the cable to speed up a health examination of the child," the spokesman said.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Yat Yuen said in Vancouver Saturday that they understood their child might have to remain with her grandmother in Hong Kong as long as a year before she is permitted to come to Canada.

BORN DURING VISIT

Mr. Yuen entered Canada illegally from Hong Kong in 1958 but was recently granted amnesty by the federal government. His wife entered Canada as a landed immigrant in 1962.

The child was born while Mrs. Yuen was visiting her mother in Hong Kong. For personal

Beautification Plan Urged by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Monday for a wide-ranging program to preserve and enhance the beauty of the United States.

It included attacks on air and water pollution, more parks and recreational areas and the elimination of eyesore junkyards along the highways.

"We will work with Canada to develop a pollution control program for the Great Lakes and other border waters," Johnson declared.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson said that while the federal government can do much, a beautiful America will require the effort of government at every level of business and private groups.

Legal Wrangle Debates Jones' Official Status

A legal wrangle began Monday in city magistrate's court over the question of whether G. E. P. Jones, suspended B. C. government purchasing commissioner, is in fact a government official.

Arguing the negative was lawyer J. Alan Baker. He made his submission as preliminary hearing opened into two charges against former city car dealer George K. Hankinson, accused of conferring benefits on a government official, named in the charges as Jones.

NOT CRIME

Mr. Baker, appearing for Hankinson, asked Magistrate William Oster to quash the charges, saying County Court Judge Montague L. Tyrwhitt-Drake had ruled Jones was not a government official and the magistrate must be bound by the judge's decision.

For Hankinson to confer a benefit on Jones as a private individual was not a crime, Mr. Baker argued.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie opposed Mr. Baker's submission, on the grounds that Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake had made a mistaken ruling.

The decision under dispute was made by Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake in county court Jan. 15 when he dismissed two charges against Jones.

These were of receiving unlawful benefits in the purchase of two cars from Hankinson's firm, the now defunct Pacific Chrysler Products.

A few hours after Jones' arrest Oct. 2, he was suspended from his duties by cabinet order.

Dismissing the case against Jones, the judge said the Crown had not only failed to prove that Jones was a government official, but had not even tried to argue the point.

Mr. McKenzie, who appeared for the Crown in the Jones case, submitted Monday the judge had misdirected himself in ruling on Jones' status.

The judge had followed the decision of a Quebec court, which had ruled that an official of the provincial liquor control board was not a government official.

What the judge had apparently not known, however, was that the Quebec court's ruling was later reversed by the Supreme Court of Canada.

"It does appear, with the utmost respect," Magistrate Oster said, "that Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake misdirected himself."

This was not accepted by Mr. Baker, who said that in any event the magistrate was bound by the judge's ruling from the higher county court.

'ALICE IN WONDERLAND' Mr. Baker also protested against the Crown continuing the prosecution against Hankinson now that Jones had been cleared.

"What sort of Alice in Wonderland logic says that although Jones did not receive any benefit from Hankinson, Hankinson received one from Jones?" Mr. Baker asked.

Mr. McKenzie's argument, Mr. Baker said, should be directed to a court of appeal in an appeal on the Jones decision.

Mr. McKenzie replied he made "no apology whatsoever," for pursuing the case, which would be decided by a trial judge by the traditional procedures.

Magistrate Oster said it was not for him to decide whether Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake was right or wrong, but whether he as magistrate was bound by the Supreme Court decision in the Quebec case.

"I would like to think about it overnight," the magistrate said, adjourning the case until today.

TRIAL BY JUDGE

Hankinson, who has elected trial by judge without jury, is charged with conferring a benefit on Jones through the withholding of a $1,500 payment due on a 1963 Dodge sedan bought by Jones.

He is also charged with conferring a benefit on Jones by selling him a 1964 Dodge in a straight trade for a 1963 Dodge of less value.

Jury Unable to Agree On Road Death Verdict

A coroner's jury Monday night, there could be negligence by one person, another person or on more than one person.

On the jury's second return to the court room for advice Mr. St. Jorre pointed out it was possible for the jury to bring in a verdict of accidental death without fixing any blame on any one.

He was told by jury foreman James Vance Gill, 567 Nora Place, that the jury agreed that Robertson's death was not accidental.

The jury hung on whether Robertson died two hours after his car was hit by another car on Interurban Road while he was hooking up a tow rope to a third car.

AT ASSIZE COURT

The coroner adjourned the inquest until the next assize court when the jury will appear before an assize court judge who will again charge the jury.

Should the jury fail to agree on a verdict a second time it will be dismissed.

'No Parkinson's Law Here'

B.C. Civil Service Is 'Most Efficient'

B.C.'s civil service is the most efficient in Canada, civil service commission chairman H. M. Morrison said Monday.

He was commenting on increases in civil service salaries contained in the budget which range from $15 to $60 a month.

The chairman told a press conference the efficiency claim is borne out by tests and checks throughout the year on all branches of the service.

NO EMPIRE BUILDING

"In an expanding service there is no evidence of empire building," Dr. Morrison said. "Parkinson's law doesn't apply here."

In making its fourth consecutive salary increase for civil servants, he said, the government is meeting fierce competition, particularly at administrative and professional levels. The guiding principle of the government is to create a good career service, said Dr. Morrison.

The budget contained $2,500,000 for salary increases to permanent staff, $885,000 for salary increases to seasonal and daily rated staffs and $325,000 for increments within salary range.

FIVE PER CENT

For the 18,000 government employees affected, the average increase is about five per cent.

No employee will receive less than $180 more a year and some will get an additional $720 a year, Dr. Morrison said.

"We looked particularly at the lower levels, as we did last year."

At Haney

Inmates

Cost

$11 a Day

It cost $11.62 each day to keep an inmate in the Haney Correctional Institution during the 1963-64 fiscal year, Attorney General Bonner disclosed Monday.

The disclosure was in answer to a question from Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

Mr. Bonner also said the daily cost at Chilliwack forest camp was $6.97. Earlier he told the House it costs $5.88 to keep an inmate in Oakalla prison farm.

NO CHANGES

Labour Minister Peterson disclosed there were no changes laid under the province's Fair Employment Practices Act between 1961 and 1964.

In other seasonal business, Mrs. Lois Hagen (NDP-Grand Forks-Greenwood) will make a second attempt to ban fire works in B.C.

She intends to introduce a private bill outlawing all fireworks except public displays.

New Flag Will Fly Monday In Five Island Ceremonies

Military ensigns will be lowered and replaced by new Canadian flags in ceremonies in at least five Vancouver Island military installations at noon next Monday.

Officials announced Monday the white ensign will be lowered at HMCS Naden, the red ensign at Work Point Barracks and the blue ensign at RCAF Station Comox.

The militia will lower the red ensign at Bay Street Armories and a flag-replacement ceremony will also be held at Royal Roads.

Dependents of navy people have been invited to the Naden ceremony.

The navy said all ships in port and at sea will conduct similar ceremonies at the same time.

The destroyer-escorts Fraser and Qu'Appelle will be in Hawaiian waters and the destroyer-escort Yukon and ocean escorts Sumervale and New Glasgow will be in California waters.

Belmont delivers clean, clear taste through a new, moisturized charcoal filter.

PHASE II IN CHARCOAL FILTER RESEARCH: If you are like the many smokers we talked to in a recent study, you want the efficiency of a charcoal filter plus the clean, clear, unspoiled taste that Belmont's advanced charcoal filter delivers.

Benson & Hedges researchers broke through a year ago to bring you Canada's first charcoal filter. In Phase II our research team set about finding a method of combining another notably effective filtering agent—water—with the charcoal granules in our filter. They succeeded, and today Belmont has Canada's first moisturized charcoal filter.

BELMONT—EXTRA-LENGTH VIRGINIA KINGS—A PRODUCT OF BENSON & HEDGES RESEARCH

Because this moisturized charcoal filter is so much more efficient, the taste of the tobacco—and only the tobacco—comes through clean and clear. As a result, Benson & Hedges have been able to match a more advanced tobacco blend to the new filtering system. You enjoy clarity of flavour and subtleties of taste never before possible. And in addition to its clean, clear taste, this new blend gives you a slower burning, more leisurely smoke.

If you haven't tried a Belmont recently, try one today. Taste the difference these advances have made.

VIEWSON SPORT

By Red Smith

It is almost always irritating when the hucksters of television stick their grubby little fingers into sports, dictating dates and sites and conditions, and even reshaping the rules nearer to their heart's desire. Yet it is a mistake to lay all the blame on the space cadets. After all, buying entertainment wholesale and retailing it over the air is their business and all of us trade at their store, sometimes gratefully.

The real culprits are the hucksters of sports who sell out to television. Add now to this rogues' gallery the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, stewards of a sport that is forever taking bows as a "gentleman's game."

To the astonishment of a membership that was never consulted, the USGA brass has thrown tradition out the window for the sake of TV loot.

The National Open championship, whose 36-hole ordeal on the third and final day made it one of the most searching tests and thrilling competitions in sports, has been cut up into four daily rounds of 18 holes to make a fat weekend show for television. This gives it precisely the same character as, and all the distinction of the Azalea Open in Wilmington, N.C.

The U.S. amateur, which has enjoyed a unique position as the last match-play tournament of consequence, will consist henceforth of four 18-hole rounds of medal, or stroke, play. Thus it achieves a gray sameness with every competition on the pro circuit, except that its players aren't so good.

As Sounding Brass

The USGA executive committee speaks for 3,030 member clubs, not one of which was consulted, apparently, until the changes were announced as a fait accompli. The whole thing was railroaded through in secrecy and haste, like the sale of the Yankees.

With the announcement came transparently phony explanations; more than that, spokesmen have had the audacity to deny that television gold was a factor. They are not telling the truth.

"Stroke play is consistently the most conclusive test of skill," they said, explaining the remodeling of the amateur. It is a conclusion hardly reached. The first amateur championships—there were two that year—were held in 1894, one at match play and one at medal. Ever since then, the title has been decided by match play.

No sponsor will buy a championship at match play for obvious reasons. In the title round, when interest is highest, only two men remain in competition. If the cameras are set up on the last four holes, the final match may never reach them. About three times out of five, the winner of the Amateur has ended the match five-up on the 14th hole or sooner.

Emasculation

Through 70 years of competition for the National Open title, the Old Turks of the USGA have brushed off complaints about that last brutal grind of 36 holes in one day. "Stamina," they said, "is one of the prerequisites of an Open champion."

They were right. If a Ken Venturi could totter through eight hours of sunstroke and still win, then by the Lord Harry Vardon, he was a real Open champion, as indeed he is.

Now they say it was inhuman to keep poor Venturi on the course for eight hours and 24 minutes last summer. They say tournaments are played so slowly now that "any suspension of play because of weather could irreparably damage the schedule."

Play has been suspended because of weather and it has been extended because of ties many, many times. It was always possible to go on to a decision. The only schedule that can be damaged "irreparably" is a television schedule.

By changing the Open schedule from Thursday-through-Saturday to four 18-hole rounds, from Thursday through Sunday, the USGA gets a big fat Saturday and Sunday on TV. Don't believe any other reason.

Then There Was One

Up to 1956 there were four great golf championships in this country—the Open, the Masters, the U.S. amateurs, and the Professional Golfers Association. The amateur and the PGA were something special, because they were at match play; you could watch Byron Nelson with his wide catch's grin eyeing Sam Snead and asking himself, "Shall I toy with him a little longer or eat him up now?" And it was as good as a heavyweight championship fight.

Then the pros changed the PGA to stroke play, and it became just another whistle stop on the annual tour. A lot of fans remember 1936 when Paul Runyan murdered Snead, 8 and 7, at Shawnee-on-Deleware. How many readers can name the present PGA champion and tell where he won the title and how?

There were four great championships, but the PGA got lost and then there were three. Now they're abolishing the Open and the Amateur, and soon we'll have one—the Masters.

There will be more money for a little while, thanks to TV. But golf is already overexposed on television. It has passed the saturation point and the future is clear. The story of golf on television will repeat the story of boxing on television. Only the blind refuse to see it.

Athletics, Grocers Rush to Showdown

No surprises, it seems, are in store in the Inter-City Senior Men's Basketball League play-downs.

Vancouver Grocers and Alberni Athletics are both moving along in expected fashion to the final, both taking 20 leads in their best-of-five semi-finals on Sunday.

Led again by Billy-Joe Price, who accounted for 21 points, Grocers whipped Victoria Haida Chiefs, 80-60, in Vancouver. At the same time, in Alberni, Athletics eased by West Westminster Bakers, 73-48.

Darrell Lorimer matched Price's 21 points and Pete Simmonds scored 14 points but the Chiefs lacked the balance to match Grocers.

Don Krogo and Neil Dirom, with 18 and 16 points, respectively, led a balanced Alberni attack.

Hourigan's, Wests Remain Deadlocked

Herby Vanderhorst, while Doug Hill and Bill Harris counted in Wests' 2-0 win over Navy.

Price and Smith remained one point behind the leaders with a 3-0 win over Brodie Bakers. Maurice Bunyan scored twice and Del McIntyre once in this game.

Bruce Wallace scored three goals and Glen Robbins two in Oak Bay Marinas' 5-1 victory over Dunlops in second division play. Oak Bay edged Wanderers, 1-0, in another game.

Hourigan's Kickers and Victoria West maintained their first-place tie in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division Sunday with shutout victories. Hourigan's blanked Gorge Mobsons, 3-0, as goals by Gen-ter Bayler, Volker Stoldt and

Eddie Powers

Leafs Return to Job Test Blades Tonight

Victoria's Maple Leafs, players and officials, struggled back into town over the weekend all set for the real Western Hockey League racing after a nine-day layoff.

Players Lou Jankowski and Fred Hucul, who took advantage of the lull in action to visit their homes in Ontario and Alberta,

Pilous has set as his immediate goal the overhauling of the third-place Vancouver Canucks, four points in front but three games closer to the end of the schedule. The Victoria coach believes the Canucks are likely to "make the first four with a late rush and that makes the Canucks, and third place, the main target."

"We've got seven games left with them, and we can do it ourselves," he said. "It's going to be tough and we are going to have to win at least eight or nine of the 10 home games we have left."

Leafs start their rugged stretch schedule tonight at Memorial Arena, and they can expect the Blades to be desperately tough. The Los Angeles club is five points back and two games closer to the end of the schedule, a position which makes tonight's encounter almost a "must."

Weekend developments were favorable to the Leafs. The Totems took the Seals, 6-5, in Seattle in overtime and Portland Buckaroos stopped the Blades, 5-1, to stay five points ahead.

With the Leafs' return to action, the Western Hockey League playoffs are under way. The Leafs are currently with Rochester in the American Hockey League.

"We've got to do it ourselves," Houle said of the tightening Western Hockey League battle for the four playoff spots. "We can't afford any slips but I think we can make it."

Ex-Officials Gather Friday 'To Blow Whistle' On NHL

OTTAWA (UPI)—Former National Hockey League linesman George Hayes said Monday he is going "to blow the whistle on the National Hockey League" this Friday.

Hayes told an Ottawa radio station the three were going to hold a news conference in Toronto to explain the whole story behind reports a 1962 Boston-New York game was rigged. Bruins' owner Weston Adams said yesterday he was going to ask league president Clarence Campbell for a full explanation of reports concerning the March 22 game won by the Rangers 4-3. Powers has charged that referee-in-chief Carl Voss, reportedly planning to retire at the end of the season, urged McArthur in a pre-game meeting to favor the Rangers by calling "only good penalties" against them.

"Everything Powers said was true—but there's a lot more to it," Hayes said in the telephone interview at his Beachburg, Ont., home today. Voss has admitted he was in the referees' dressing room before the game but said he did not mention New York when urging McArthur to call "only good penalties."

Rangers were one point up on Detroit Red Wings in a tight battle for the fourth and final playoff berth at the time. Both teams had two games to play and the New York win gave them a three-point bulge and virtually eliminated the Red Wings. Powers, who resigned from the NHL in 1963, has said he could prove his charges. Hayes was fired last week after refusing to submit to an eye examination.

"Sure I miss it," Hayes said when asked if he regretted leaving the game. "But 19 years under Campbell is too much. He's a conceited, self-centered dictator," the station quoted Hayes as saying.

Boston Owner Asks for Investigation

BOSTON (UPI)—Boston Bruins owner Weston Adams plans to ask National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell for a full explanation of reports that a 1962 Boston-New York game here was rigged.

Adams cited charges made by former referee Eddie Powers about the March 22, 1962, game won by the Rangers, 4-3. He said he had heard rumors about the game before, but had been told by Campbell that they were "old hat."

"But in light of these new developments, I will want a full report," said Adams, who replaced the late Walter Brown on the league's board of governors.

"I think that it is my obligation to the Bruins and our fans to get all the facts on this situation. I am going to get in touch with Campbell as soon as possible," he said. Powers charged that present referee-in-chief Carl Voss urged former referee Dalton McArthur in a pre-game meeting to favor New York by calling "only good penalties" against the Rangers.

With two games left for both teams, the Rangers were vying for the fourth and final playoff spot with the Detroit Red Wings, who were one point behind in fifth place. The 4-3 New York victory over the Bruins gave the Rangers a three-point bulge and virtually clinched the berth. Detroit was eliminated a few days later.

Powers, who resigned from the NHL in February, 1963 after claiming that Campbell failed to back up the referees, says he could prove "the charges. Deposed linesman George Hayes, who also worked the game, has supported Powers' charge. Hayes was fired by the league last week after refusing to submit to an eye examination.

Voss, who reportedly is planning to retire at the end of the season, admitted that he was in the referees' locker room before the New York-Boston game. However, he said he did not mention New York when he remarked to McArthur, "call only good penalties."

Game reports which appeared in two Boston newspapers the morning after the game make for interesting reading in view of the NHL's official position.

The late Ralph Wheeler, writing in the Herald, said the Rangers' triumph was "achieved by a combination of early foot by the Blue Shirts and acute astigmatism on the part of referee Dalton McArthur."

Wheeler noted that one in-censed fan struck McArthur at the end of the second period.

He (McArthur) overlooked innumerable instances of holding and interference by the Rangers in one of the most inefficient refereeing jobs of the season. The crowd of 9,011 left little doubt of their opinion regarding his incompetency."

Boston Globe sports writer Tom Fitzgerald, under a headline reading "Hot Referee as N.Y. Wins," composed the following lead paragraph:

"Thanks to fairly generous assistance from referee Dalton McArthur, the New York Rangers moved closer to clinching the fourth Stanley Cup playoff spot last night in the Garden by snatching a 4-3 decision from the Bruins."

Boston Globe sports writer Tom Fitzgerald, under a headline reading "Hot Referee as N.Y. Wins," composed the following lead paragraph:

"Thanks to fairly generous assistance from referee Dalton McArthur, the New York Rangers moved closer to clinching the fourth Stanley Cup playoff spot last night in the Garden by snatching a 4-3 decision from the Bruins."

Wheeler noted that one in-censed fan struck McArthur at the end of the second period.

Just Dead Horse Claims Campbell

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today that, as far as he's concerned, Eddie Powers' charges of game manipulation are old hat and not worth doing anything about.

"We're not going to do anything about it," Campbell said in an interview. "We fought all this out a year ago and there's nothing new now to justify doing anything at this time."

Powers, who resigned as an NHL referee a year, said in Toronto Friday he has accumulated evidence that a 1962 game between Boston and New York was manipulated by Campbell and referee-in-chief Carl Voss.

He said he had asked for a hearing before the league's board of governors, but had been refused.

Campbell accused Powers, who quit the NHL complaining officials were not backed up by Campbell and Voss, of "sticking his nose into something that isn't his business."

"Nothing had ever been heard about this from anyone until he started to stir things up. What business is it of his?"

"He's just trying to put on a big show."

Campbell said Dalton McArthur, who refereed the game in question, has never complained about it. McArthur also resigned from the NHL officiating staff last season.

"As far as I'm concerned, I don't see any point in flogging old straw," said Campbell. "As things now stand, nobody is going to do anything."

Fastest Skater? Three Say Keon

NEW YORK (CP)—Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs has been named the National Hockey League's fastest skater and Bob Pulford, another Leaf centre, was selected the best penalty killer in a poll of the circuit's coaches.

The poll also resulted in the selection of Bobby Hull as possessing the hardest shot, Toronto's Bobby Baum as the hardest bodychecker among the defencemen, and Detroit's Gordie Howe as most likely to score on breakaways.

Keon received three votes as the fastest skater while Hull collected two and Montreal Canadiens' Henri Richard had one.

Pulford polled four votes as the outstanding penalty-killer. Don Marshall of New York Rangers was named on the other two ballots. Baum topped the hardest-bodychecker balloting with three votes. Boston's Leo Babin had two and Ted Green, another Bruin, received one.

Wings Five Points Away In Tightening NHL Race

Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens are going opposite ways in a National Hockey League race that begins to look more and more unsettled in the four-team battle for playoff position.

Wings, hottest club in the league at the moment with six wins in their last seven games, trampled Canadiens, 6-0, on Sunday night to leave only five points between the Stanley Cup contenders. It was the fourth successive loss for Canadiens, the first time in more than eight years that the Montreal club has lost four in a row.

Coupled with Toronto's hard-earned 2-1 win over Chicago Black Hawks, it left the Hawks two points ahead of Canadiens, four points ahead of Leafs and five points ahead of Wings, who have three games in hand on Chicago and Toronto.

Two goals in the first two minutes of the second period, after a rough, scoreless first period, sent the Wings on their way and they were in charge of action from then on. The second goal was by Gordie Howe, and it completed a cycle for the veteran winger. He has now scored at least 100 career goals against each of the other five clubs.

Leafs took a 2-0 lead on goals by Dave Keon and Frank Mahovlich and made them stand up as Johnny Bower came up with some clutch saves in Chicago.

HULL INJURED

Hawks played without Bobby Hull, who injured ligaments in his right knee on Saturday and will probably have to miss at least two more games. Hull will then only have 18 games left in which to get the 33 goals he needs to break the NHL record of 50 in one season.

Sunday's other game saw New York Rangers trim Boston Bruins, 3-2, as Rod Gilbert and newly-acquired Doug Robinson each scored twice.

Student Rink Rallies To Take B.C. Honors

KAMLOOPS — A scrappy, unpredictable University of British Columbia rink, making up for lack of experience by an ability to come up with big shots when needed, will represent B.C. in the Canadian men's curling championships at Saskatoon, March 1-5.

Jack Arnet and Terry Miller, both former Port Alberni curlers, and Glen Walker and Soren Jensen won the provincial final on Sunday by defeating Buzz McGibney of Trail in a best-of-three series which went the limit.

LOOKED BAD

Getting together just before provincial playdowns started, the UBC rink seemed headed for elimination, starting the sixth end of the second game.

It did little right in the early part of the first game in being down to a 13-9 trouncing but seemed to be coming on at the finish. But McGibney, supported by John Cameron and Tom and Dan Feeney, pushed to a 4-1 lead after five ends of the second game and seemed headed for two in a row until Cameron missed both his shots on the sixth end.

TOO IN THE CHANCE

Arnet took full advantage, cracking through for a four-ender by coming around a guard to chip-out McGibney's counter.

Taking heart after the sudden reversal, the UBC rink seldom made a mistake after that. Arnet had to go an extra end to square matters with a 10-8 win and the youngsters, who at 23½ years average are the youngest rink to ever represent B.C. in the Canadian final, kept pressure on McGibney all the way in the deciding game to win handily, 9-4.

BIG SHOT

Ahead, 3-2, starting the sixth end, Arnet stole two points, setting it up with a raise through a port to the four-foot ring which left him counting three. McGibney managed to get one rock out trying the same port, then wrecked with a draw attempt after Arnet had plugged the gap with his last rock.

It became only a matter of

Tinling Nabs Senior Title

KAMLOOPS — Vancouver's Fred Tinling, who played on four British Columbia rinks in the Canadian final for the Brier Tankard, will play a fifth Canadian final this year as skip of the provincial senior champions.

The 55-year-old Tinling, ably supported by 59-year-old Frank Law, 55-year-old Eek Woods and 56-year-old Howard Williamson, won the provincial title Sunday with 10-5 and 10-4 victories over Milt Ryalls of Nelson.

Tinling and his rink now go to Port Arthur to compete in the first Canadian senior championship, minimum age 35 — March 22-27.

Gervais Favored In Alberta Final

DAWSON CREEK—Huge Hec Gervais, 1961 Canadian champion, appears the skip to beat here this weekend in the Alberta curling final.

Gervais and his rink qualified for the four-rink playoff at Edmonton over the weekend by rolling over Norm Rose of Sedgewick, 10-3, in the Northern Alberta final. It was the ninth straight playoff victory for the chicken rancher from St. Albert, who curls out of Edmonton.

Arguing with Gervais over the trip to Saskatoon for the Canadian final next month will be Nick Lashuk of Calgary, Mel Watchorn of Fairview and Max Anderson of Yellowknife.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Lashuk, beaten out in the provincial final by Gervais in 1961, regained the Southern Alberta championship with a 7-5 victory over Barry Coleman of Red Deer. Two prizes remain good for as many points decided the issue on the 10th end.

Watchorn won the Peace River district final with a draw to the four-foot ring which eliminated Dan Ryerson of Seasmith. Anderson won the Northwest Territories berth Sunday by defeating the Giant Gold Mines rink at Yellowknife.

Final Stroke Gives Billy $15,000 Win

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper tapped in a three-foot birdie putt on the last hole Sunday to win the $15,000 first prize in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

It gave Casper a last-round 70 for a 348 in the 90-hole tournament, one stroke less than the totals of Arnold Palmer and Tommy Aaron, who each earned $6,000 for their second-place tie.

Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard and Dave Marr finished in a four-place tie at 352. Among other winners was Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who won $1,300 for his 357. Toronto's George Knudson missed the 73-hole cut of 203 after rounds of 74, 73, 73 and 75.

Bays Defeat Mount View

Oak Bay broke a tie with less than three minutes remaining in the game to record a 44-40 victory over Mount View at Oak Bay High School yesterday in an inter-high school senior girls' basketball game.

Sheila Shipley scored 18 points for Oak Bay while Linda Edge of Mount View scored 19.

Lads Steal Show In City Bonspiel

They never got a mention during the progress of the 13th annual men's bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club but when it was over, four youngsters from Esquimalt Junior High School were the curlers most talked about although the premier honor evaded them.

Jim Armstrong, Gordie Paterson, Brock Emberton and Dave Vyner—14, 15, 14 and 15 years of age, respectively—might have lacked bonspiel experience but they made up for it by making enough shots to win a primary event and force a playoff for Grand Aggregate honors.

They lost the Grand Aggregate to Lloyd Larson, but only after an extra end, 6-5. The youngsters forced a tie with Larson by winning the Times event in impressive fashion. They upended Lyle Garraway, who had been threatening a sweep up until Saturday, 7-3, in the semi-finals, then knocked over red-hot Ed Porter, 9-5, in the final.

That gave the Esquimalt juveniles at 6-1 record in the primary events to match that of Larson, who won the Colonist event, the top primary, by defeating Jim Coffey's entry in the final.

Team Tenpin Honor For Mayfair Lanes

Only two spares separated the first three teams when play ended Sunday night at Aurora Lanes in the team event of the city tenpin championships.

Honors went to Mayfair Lanes who finished with a great run in the third game for a 901 scratch total which boosted their three-game gross total to 3,023. Des McGimpsey's was only 10 pins behind, and only four ahead of Hartnett Fuel, the third team to get over 3,000 on a day when most bowlers ran into split troubles.

BIG FINISH
Mayfair started off rather inauspiciously with a 751 effort, bucked it to 881 in the second game and then closed out with a fine 961 scratch as lead-off-man Iver Hansen and anchorman Keith Snelling both got 234.

It was the second big game for Snelling, who started with 169 and then got his big hook working to mark up a 244 before his 234. It gave him a 647 and the lead in the scratch all events.

Rick Blake, who had the day's high single, and Orel Morneau were close behind. Blake had 265-300-190 for 645 and Morneau was at 641 with games of 188, 243 and 210.

IT'S POSSIBLE

Biggest single ball of the team event was thrown by George Diamond who cleaned up the "big four" split to earn an ABC chevron.

Youthful Pianist Displays Mastery

By BEST BINNY

For its seventh concert of the season the Victoria Symphony orchestra with Otto-Werner Mueller conducting provided an all-Russian program.

Performances were given at Duncan on Friday and in Victoria Sunday afternoon and Monday evening.

Canadian pianist Richard Gresko was the guest artist, playing Prokofiev's third Piano Concerto.

BEST SELECTION

Mr. Gresko, who is 21, has been described as being equally at home with the moderns and with the classicists. He could have made no better selection than a Prokofiev concert to prove the point.

And prove it he did, combining masterly exposition of the many modern and fiery passages with sympathetic treatment of those more lyrical and melodic.

For a well-deserved encore Mr. Gresko played Debussy's La Fille Au Cheveux de Lin. This was a happy choice, too. The Girl With Flaxen Hair provided a very welcome contrast to—and respite from—the tempestuous Russian items.

QUITE ABSORBING

The program opened with Glinka's Overture to the opera Russian and Ludmilla. About the only excerpt from this work known outside Russia, the overture is quite absorbing and also demanding.

It causes as much stir and activity among the performers as a fox in a henhouse. Full of fireworks and unexpected twist, it is a great test of musical proficiency and alertness. The orchestra met the test successfully.

CHANGED MIND

This composition reflects the moody temperament of the composer who described it first as "a failure" and, not long after, as "magnificent".

The theme of the second movement was lifted bodily and unashamedly by Earl Burtnett and Robert Stowell in 1927 and appeared as the popular song, If I Should Lose You. Twelve years later Andre Kostelanetz revived it again, this time as Moon Love.

The Symphony has an extra pair of concerts next Sunday and Monday with the appearance of the Canadian Opera Company.

NEXT PROGRAM

The bill is Strauss' Die Fledermaus and about 32 symphony players, conducted by Mr. Mueller, will form the orchestra for the occasion.

Regular season programs come up at Sidney on Feb. 26 and in Victoria Feb. 28 and March 1.

Broadway Debut

Trite Show Wastes Canadian's Talent

By DAVE PIKE

NEW YORK (CP)—The most imposing thing in Kelly, a big, banal musical which opened on Broadway Saturday night, is a bridge.

The Brooklyn Bridge, to be precise — "a majestic monster who doesn't even say boo," as the less-than-poetic lyrics proclaim it.

The musical is based on the umpteenth-told story of Steve Brodie's jump from the span in New York's days of derby hats and nickel beers.

SURVIVES LEAP

Canadian Don Franks, at Hop Kelly, near the end of this tired, trite show, leaps off the bridge and lives to sing happily ever after.

Unfortunately for Franks, a talented Toronto-based actor-singer making his Broadway debut at the top, the show died much earlier in the evening of stale comedy strung out on a frayed line of bad jokes, uninspired staging and choreography, and lyrics and music that go in one ear and out the other with hardly a trace of distinguishable tune.

New Company

TORONTO (CP)—Canada Packers Ltd. and Jackson's (Cario) Meat Packing Ltd. of Geelong, Australia said Monday they have formed a new company to operate a meat packing and meat canning plant in Australia.

Franks is believable as Hop Kelly, but the character is not. Franks exudes enthusiasm and exuberance all over the stage, but, as Kelly's creators have fashioned him, it takes more than will to find a way to give him dimension.

Franks, a Vancouver native familiar to Canadian television audiences, isn't given much opportunity to prove he can sing—and he can—with the yawn-inducing songs he has.

He needs a beat to come through, and there's precious little of that in Kelly. He must belt out a talky, ridiculous Ode to the Bridge and drift inanely through a syrupy love song.

Garden Notes

Plants of Distinction

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One way of achieving some distinction in the front garden is to plant out a specimen of some unusual tropical, exotic or desert plant where it can catch the eye of passers-by. Pampas grass from the Argentine, with its dramatic, silvery plumes, is a good example of what I mean. While another subject often used for this purpose is Dracaena, a palm-like plant particularly good when used as a centrepiece in a bed of dwarf bedding geraniums.

Another plant of distinction, not so commonly grown hereabouts, is the Yucca, a desert plant from Arizona and New Mexico. While actually a member of the lily family, the Yucca is actually a rather remarkable evergreen shrub, although it grows in much the same way as the better-known Pampas grass. From rosettes of narrow, long, tough, spine-tipped leaves, there arises a tall spire of cream-colored, pendant, bell-shaped flowers, three to six feet in height, providing a bold yet pleasing accent of character to any garden.

From its sub-tropical appearance, an impression has been created that the Yucca is not reliably hardy in our northern latitude, yet I have seen it thriving happily in Swift Current, Sask., surviving winters in which the temperature dropped to 30 degrees below zero. Cold has no terrors for this tough, leathery plant, and the only casualties I have encountered in our climate have been due to poor drainage; as a desert dweller, it cannot tolerate a site where puddles stand over its roots during the winter rains.

Don't be put off, either, by stories of the Yucca flowering only once every seven years; these are simply not true. A small nursery-grown plant may take two to three years before blooming, but once it reaches its adult, flowering stage, it should bloom unfailingly every season.

Several varieties are available. Yucca gloriosa, sometimes known as Adam's Needle, is one of the most tolerant kinds, and the creamy-white flowers are packed close together in a narrow, conical, erect panicle on a three-foot stem, usually blooming from July into September.

Somewhat less stiff in foliage, and with a looser and more branching flower stem is Y. recurvifolia, harder than gloriosa and coming into bloom even earlier in life. Both these species make short, stubby, thick stems as they age, but Y. filamentosa develops short side growths and no main stem. From near the ground, it pushes up erect spikes of ivory-colored, drooping flowers, standing four to six feet tall and blooming in July and August.

A fourth member of the family is Yucca flaccida "Ivory," in which the lovely flowers, with their pointed petals, stand out horizontally from the blossom spike rather than drooping, in much the same manner as the flowers on a well-grown spike of Foxglove, but with the tropical-looking, cactus-like rosette of foliage below.

Yuccas can be grown in groups, but for my money they are more effective placed singly as a point of accent, possibly in the front lawn, or at a crown point in a rock garden. This plant needs a dryish, sun-baked site and well-drained, sandy loam soil in which to root. April is a good month to plant, and most kinds will start blooming in their second summer after planting.

ART BUCHWALD, Frustrated TV Writer

It's a Great Idea, But . . .

Not long ago I read a book called "Only You, Dick Darling," by Merle Miller, which was an expose of the television business, and the problems of getting a television pilot made. I thought it was an exaggeration until I got an idea for a television show myself and tried to get somebody interested.

My idea was to do a show called Frontier Pedlar which was to be a series based on the pedlars who travelled through the West selling their wares on horseback.

My hero, whom I wanted played by Edward G. Robinson, would have one thing going for him. Although his clothes were grotesque and he looked like a poor pedlar, he was, in fact, a very fast man with a gun—he had to be to stay alive.

But he had no reputation as a fast gun because no one wanted to admit they could be taken by a pedlar.

In the meantime, he goes through the series doing good to everybody, saving people's homes, making chicken soup for sick children, shooting bad men, and bringing joy and philosophy to the world.

As soon as I developed the idea, I immediately took it to my agent, who got terribly enthused. "It's great. I can see Dick Van Dyke playing the pedlar."

"I was thinking more of Edward G. Robinson."

"Edward G. Robinson? You must be crazy. You have to have a young pedlar, someone the audience can identify with."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," I said.

"I'll set up an appointment with one of the major studios."

Two days later we met with the head of one of the studios. He loved the whole thing. "It's great and it's different. But why don't we have two young pedlars instead of one, and they're always trying to get each other's girl and each week they have third kooky fellow who takes to help someone in trouble. I care of their horses. It really see it as a Western Sunset Strip. has a lot of promise. Let's get together with the network people. I'm sure they'll go for it."

We got together with the network people—at least two of them—and I could see I grabbed them from the start. They liked everything about it, except that they had one suggestion.

"Why do they have to be pedlars?" one of the executives asked.

"Well," I said, "I figured no one had ever done a series about pedlars before and it would be different."

"People don't care about pedlars. Suppose we kept the idea just as you have it, but instead of a pedlar we make the hero a hired gun. We could get somebody like Jim Garner or Chuck Connors."

"Now this guy sells his services to anyone who needs him, providing, of course, they're on the side of good. Every week he rides into another town and has a problem which he resolves before the show is over."

The other network executive said, "Hey, that's a great. The guy's not married so he can get involved with a girl in each sequence."

"But what about the pedlar clothes?" I asked.

"What do you mean, pedlar clothes? The guy wears an all-black cowboy suit. That's his trademark."

After we left the meeting, I said to my agent that I didn't think too much of the idea.

"Fortunately," he said, "we have two other networks, so if you don't like the idea we just go to another network."

We went to another network and explained the idea. They loved it, but they had only one minor change.

"Instead of two young pedlars, why don't we make them frontier lawyers and have a father and son team who go around defending innocent people. I sort of see E. G. Marshall as the father."

At that moment I decided to give up the television business and stick with the column.

Physicians and medicine men have been trying for centuries to find a cure for the common cold, and so far all they have found is more causes.

Last time we checked, they had found more than 80 different "viruses or agents" that caused bad colds. They named the viruses "rhinoviruses," not because they were tough and stubborn like rhinoceroses but because "rhino" is doctor-Greek for "nose."

Although the Reader's Digest gets its hopes up every few years about a vaccine to banish the bad cold, the disease is just as hardy as the magazine's medical optimism. Antibiotics often can control serious complications of bad colds, but the basic illness itself still has its way with mankind.

Man's ingenuity soon will take him to the moon, but his earthly progress against sniffles is measured by such modest milestones as the invention of the aspirin tablet and Kleenex.

Recently we have been host to a particularly persistent visitation of rhinoviruses, or other powerful agents. For a while we assumed that our rhinoviruses were of the famous Johnson strain. We followed the television news shows closely while President Johnson was ill, and our symptoms were the same, all right.

Then, when the president's rhinoviruses began to withdraw and ours hung on, we wondered if we did not have another kind of cold. This occurred to us as a matter of fact, right after we read somewhere that some medical authorities believe bad cold can be acquired psychologically. We decided that we probably had caught ours from all those television commercials about clogged sinus passages.

Although medical science does not offer a cure for a bad cold, there are plenty of cures around. Almost everyone who is not a doctor has a cure that he is happy to recommend.

A friend told us that a 24-hour diet of raw onions and fruit juice was a sure cure that had never failed him. Another said onions boiled in hard cider was the secret, but a third said that the onions were merely conscience-medicine—the hard cider was what cured a man, and the harder the better. He personally recommended hot whisky toddies taken every two hours during a day in bed.

We went to the drugstore and there met a man who said any cough medicine was a half-measure; we ought to cure the cold itself, he said, quickly and without nonsense. His family had been curing bad colds for numerous generations with a dose of Epsom salts and a hot mustard footbath. He made us promise to undertake this treatment as soon as we got home.

We stopped at the door to talk to a man recommending turpentine on a lump of sugar, and then the Epsom salts man rushed up again. He said he had been thinking about what had been curing colds in his family for generations, and the more he thought about it the more he thought it was a dose of mustard in hot water and an Epsom-salts footbath.

Laymen are so more help than doctors.

Recreation Delegates To Meet

About 500 delegates from provincial sports and recreation organizations will meet in Victoria early in May.

Plans for the convention have been discussed at a series of meetings, one of which was held Monday at city hall.

Ald. Cecil Parrott and city officials met representatives of local recreation groups to make arrangements for the convention May 6, 7 and 8.

Delegates will be present from the Provincial Recreation and Sports Council and the newly-formed B.C. Sports Federation.

The city will be host at a coffee party for delegates May 5 when visitors are registering.

Sessions will be held in the Empress Hotel.

City Employee

Harvey Rites Today

The funeral will be held today of Herbert Charles Harvey, of 1437 Myrtle Avenue, who died at Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday. He was 47.

An employee of the city for 27 years, Mr. Harvey drove a truck in recent years. He was an active member of the Civic Employees' Union.

MOTHER SURVIVES

Mr. Harvey is survived by his mother, Mrs. Emily Harvey, his widow, 104, and two sons, Barry and Brian. There are two brothers, George and Donald, and three sisters, Mrs. Alfred Nex and Mrs. D. Hoadley, of Victoria and Mrs. Ruby Belair, of Vancouver, Alberta.

Canon R. K. Sampson will officiate at the 11 a.m. funeral service at chapel of Thomson and Irving, 1625 Quadra. Burial will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Bolts From Blue

Mysterious blue flashes of light over Victoria Monday night were identified by weather officials as lightning flashes in the unusually clear sky.

Numerous Colonist readers called to report the flashes.

"Like a defective electrical transformer," said one.

Weather officials said there was lightning over the Port Angeles area at the time.

Seniors Fortified

20,000 Petition For 'Fair' Fares

Armed with about 20,000 signatures, senior citizens will approach the provincial government next Tuesday seeking a reduction in bus fares.

Mrs. Catharine Horne, executive director of the Silver Thruway Service which is sponsoring the drive in Victoria, said Monday the target figure of 7,000 signatures has been reached and it is hoped to add 1,000 more before Friday, the closing day.

In addition to the petitions from Victoria, the spokesmen for the old people will have 10,000 to 15,000 signatures collected in Vancouver.

Mrs. Horne said it has not been decided who will speak for the petitioners nor is it positively known just who the petitioners will see in the legislative buildings.

The pensioners are seeking an annual $3-a-year bus-fare card. They have said that in the normal course of events, pensioners will not be using buses during rush hours.

Fares Too High

The Old Voters Just Fade Away

One reason many Victorians do not vote is simply because they are unable to do so—being without a car or the strength to walk downtown and unable to afford bus fare.

In a letter to the mayor and city council, Mrs. Charles A. Chisholm says that neither she nor her husband had voted in six years.

They do not have a car or the health and strength to walk to the polls.

Lake Group Meets Tonight

The Prospect Lake District Community Association will meet at 8 tonight in the community hall.

Elected by the organization Jan. 19 were Gordon Denford, president; Don Sanford, vice-president; Loretta Horsey, secretary, and George Roberts, treasurer.

Scientists to Discuss Langford Lake Algae

A University of Victoria scientist will talk to the Metro Health Board today about the growth of poisonous algae in Langford Lake.

Alan Austin, assistant professor in the biology department, has started sampling water at the lake.

Record Capital Figure

Hike to $100,000 Sought For Drainage In Saanich

Saanich public works committee will ask municipal council to boost the annual budget amount for capital drainage projects from $70,000 to a new high of $100,000.

The committee will recommend capital drainage projects at a cost to the corporation of $97,300 for 1965.

The committee will also recommend several big street projects for the coming year in council.

Reconstruction and repair work on Burnside Road from Dupplin to Harriet, costing $61,000 is recommended.

Of this amount, $7,000 would be borne by property owners fronting on the project.

Reconstruction of Cedar Hill Cross Road between Richmond and Shelbourne, at a cost of $33,000, is recommended by the committee.

'ORPHAN ROAD'

A $10,000 road project for Gordon Head Road between Ruby and Cedar Hill Cross Road was rejected by the committee.

"This could be an orphan road," commented Reeve Hugh Curtis.

The committee decided to recommend no work on five considered intersections this year.

The intersections were Quadra-Cloverdale-Cook, Lansdowne-Richmond, Tillikum-Burnside, Tillikum-Carey, and Gorge-Admirals.

BIGGEST PROJECT

Biggest drainage project is the $60,000 second stage in the North Shelbourne drainage development.

In an important cost recommendation, the committee will ask council to increase substantially the amounts frontagers pay toward streets and drains.

Property owners have paid $2.45 a front foot for drainage. The committee will recommend this be increased over two years to $3.75.

Frontagers have paid $4.80 a front foot for main roads, the committee recommends.

Garden Club To See Slides

The Esquimalt Garden Club will hold a meeting in Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Color slides of gardens will be shown by Capt. Robert Ford.

15 Groups Meet Here Wednesday

Drive Planned Against Park Town

By JACK FRY

Fifteen outdoor recreation groups from southern Vancouver Island will meet in Victoria to draft organized opposition to the proposed mining town in Strathcona Park.

The meeting, called by W. A. James, chairman of the B.C. Council of Outdoor Clubs, will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Williams Building, 749 Broughton Street.

Meanwhile, the general manager of Western Mines Ltd., Charles M. Campbell of Vancouver, outlined his company's plans here Monday to establish a township inside Strathcona Park.

Recreation Minister Kiernan last week confirmed reports his department is negotiating with a Western Mines subsidiary for the possible location of the mining town.

Final decision apparently has not been reached because the recreation department wants the town built in an area which was gutted by a forest fire, while the company wants a scenic spot several miles away.

GOING TO STAY

Mr. Campbell told the Colonist the mine is there, it is going to stay there and people may as well co-operate to make the housing development as attractive and comfortable as possible for the miners and their families.

"We have developed a mining operation which will be a profitable operation, and present indications are it will have a long life," he said.

"Our ore indications show enough for six or seven years, but geologically we anticipate enough for 20 to 25 years."

'NOT SHACK TOWN'

"This means that what we do must be done to last—it is not a shack town, short-term proposal."

A hundred men are living in single men's housing units at the mine southwest of Buttle Lake and up to 300 will work there eventually.

Presumably the company could ask all 300 to live in single men's quarters at the mine, but the company wants its married employees to have their families with them, said Mr. Campbell.

"Our only objective is that they live in attractive, comfortable accommodation as close to their work as possible. We hope to provide this with out substantially interfering with park values."

Several possible townsites are unsuitable:

● The area immediately adjacent to the mine is "without sunlight five months of the year."

● The 10 to 20 square miles of burned area two miles from the mine is so depressing in appearance no one would want to live there.

"This is just miles of grey spikes—but we are dealing with people who are basic resource developers upon whom the basic economy of B.C. depends, and they are not second-class citizens."

● "The only alternative outside the park is 25 miles from the mine and 30 miles from Campbell River, on privately-owned timber land which preliminary negotiations have indicated is not for sale."

"To create a housing settlement there would be creating nothing, because it is neither at the mine or Campbell River."

"MIDDLE OF NOWHERE"

"It would be right in the middle of nowhere," said Mr. Campbell.

"The site we favor is about four or five miles from the mine itself, on the southeast side of the lake, more than half a mile back from the lake shore and 500 feet above the lake in elevation.

"It is one where limited housing development could be created which would give the working men and their families a pleasant outlook—but sufficiently far from the lake that interference with the lake would be at a minimum."

MAYBE BEER PARLOR

The only commercial enterprises which the company plans to provide for the community are such basic requirements as a grocery store, a gas station and possibly a beer parlor.

Council Meets
At Ladysmith

The dates of both provincial and diocesan conventions of the Catholic Women's League were announced by Mrs. W. W. Rogers, president of the Victoria Diocesan Council, when it met in the Anglican Church hall at Ladysmith recently. The provincial council will be held at the Empress Hotel, June 2 and 3, while the diocesan meeting will be held at the hall of Our Lady of Rosary Church on May 13.

St. Mary's Council at Ladysmith were the hostesses for the meeting and served luncheon during the day-long session. Other councils represented were St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria; Sacred Heart, Lake Hill; Queen of Peace, Esquimalt; St. Patrick's, Oak Bay; Our Lady of the Assumption, Sidney; Our Lady of the Rosary, Langford; St. Edward's, Duncan; Mt. St. Peter's, Nanaimo, and St. Patrick's, Campbell River.

Mrs. E. O'Brien, president of the hostess council, welcomed guests. Letters read by secretary, Mrs. B. Michaels included one from the Catholic Immigration Services, archdiocese of Vancouver, asking for sponsorship of a refugee mother and child.

Opening prayer was given by diocesan director, Father Paul Monahan, Duncan. Other directors present were Father W. H. Bullock, St. Andrew's; Father Bernard Hanley, Our Lady of the Assumption, Sidney and Brentwood, and Father W. J. O'Brien, Our Lady of the Rosary. Father Bullock told of plans to record tapes for marriage counselling and said he was making tapes on liturgical data, suitable for meetings.

Father Hanley stressed that small parish councils should concentrate on convenerhips rather than try to cover too wide a range of subjects.

Mrs. J. A. Duquay, Campbell River, outlined the pilgrimage to the Shrine of Guadalupe. Mrs. A. C. Niehaus, Chemainus, reported on recommendation from the national council that local groups solicit more honorary members from the parishes.

Mrs. Niehaus also gave Mrs. E. V. Jones' legislation report. Mrs. C. E. Rivers, Victoria, chairman of child welfare, distributed posters for the adoption campaign which begins this month.

Mrs. J. W. Gibbs, Sidney, reported on work being done by the Indian missions committee. This included weekly visits to the Indian hospital at Nanaimo, finding of homes for Indian students and distribution of gifts, toys, food and clothing.

Education chairman Mrs. Al Lachmut, Langford, announced the formation of a committee to assist councils. She recommended a diocesan bursary and spoke on the national bursary of $1,500, given for post-graduate studies in social welfare.

Conveners for radio, television and films, Mrs. H. James, Victoria, reported on her attendance at two meetings of "The Code 150," a group made up of representatives from Victoria organizations, banded together to combat the circulation of obscene literature.

Other reports were given by Mrs. W. H. Cannon, Nanaimo, report forms; Mrs. I. Shelling, Chemainus, Girl Guides; Mrs. J. R. Horgan, East Sooke, publicity; and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Esquimalt, league magazine.

Orange bread keeps moist when honey is used as sweetener.

Honey Adds Flavor Bonus

Because honey helps keep cakes and other baked foods moist and fresh, it is often used in bakeries. You can use it for similar reasons in your kitchen, as well as for the flavor bonus honey gives these flour mixtures.

For best results, use cake and cookie recipes that call for honey, rather than simply substituting honey for sugar. If you wish to try some honey in a recipe that calls for sugar, however, replace only half of the sugar with honey and reduce the liquid to make up for the water honey contains. For example, when you substitute  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup honey for  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar, reduce the liquid by  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup (2 tablespoons).

HONEY ORANGE BREAD

Two tablespoons shortening; 1 cup honey; 1 egg; 1-1/2 tablespoons grated orange rind; 2 1/2 cups flour; 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon soda; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/4 cup orange juice; 1 cup bran cereal (not flakes).

Blend shortening and honey; beat in egg and orange rind. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together; add to honey mixture alternately with orange juice and stir the bran in last.

Pour into one large (5x9 inches) or two small loaf pans that have been greased. Bake in 325 degree Fahrenheit until a toothpick inserted in the centre comes out clean (about 1 1/2 hours for large loaf less time for small ones).

Besides being used in baked foods, honey is good over and under them. The broiled (roasting) is suitable for all kinds of cakes but is especially good on chocolate or spice. Use it on frozen cakes whenever you need one ready in a hurry; the cake thaws while the icing browns.

For the honey rolls, with their built-in spread, you may prefer to use your own familiar recipe for the dough, though this one is very easy to make.

BROILED PINEAPPLE, COCONUT AND HONEY FROSTING

This recipe makes enough frosting for a small cake (about 5x10 inches); for a large one, double the recipe.

Blend together 1/2 cup honey, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup crushed or chopped, drained pineapple and 1/2 cup shredded coconut. Spread lightly on cake (hot or cold). Place cake on centre rack in oven and broil until the coconut browns.

Ice Cream Tops
Peach Dessert

Everything happens to peaches. They get canned, dried, baked, broiled, brandied, pickled and spiced. Why should a poor old peach be so many-handed? Could it be because of its firm, juicy flesh and golden coat? Or could it be its sunny fragrance—a gentle reminder of the hot, lazy days of a tropical summer?

Whatever the reason, peaches are a firm favourite with everyone and what nicer way to bring a little sunshine into the winter months than with a delicious peachy dessert.

Our recipe makes sufficient for four to six people. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Grease an 8x12-inch baking pan.

Combine 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1-1/2 cups of day-old bread cubes, two tablespoons melted butter or margarine, and one tablespoon lemon juice. Drain and cube two cups of canned peaches and blend into the mixture. Place the mixture in the greased pan and bake for about 20 minutes.

For a really scrumptious treat, serve peach crumble with thick whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a sophomore at university and psychology is my major. I've been reading your column for eight years and you are like a second mother to me. I know you won't let me down.

I am doing a term paper on modern marriage. There is a lot of material available on the subject but what I need is current, up-to-date stuff. Most of all, I need inside dope from someone who really knows what's going on. Who is better qualified to help me than YOU, Ann Landers, the supreme authority—the person who hears from everybody?

All I need is about 800 words, describing the critical marital problems of our times, the causes and the cures. Also a brief paragraph on why there is a declining respect for marriage in our society.

Save my life and jot this down for me will you? Thanks, Doll.

—BENNIE

Dear Bennie: You just want me to jot down 800 words on the problems of marriage—the cause and the cure. Thanks a heap.

Look, Lamb Chop, every year about this time I get dozens of letters from wiseheims who want me to do their work. The library on your campus has loads of information and it's plenty current, so get moving—YOUR SECOND MOTHER.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually I agree with you, but I think you were dead wrong when you lambasted Aunt Lucille because she didn't feed her little nephew when he asked for something to eat.

The mother who complained said she and her family were driving by Aunt Lucille's house and she waved for them to stop. From her letter I didn't get the impression that Aunt Lucille signalled them to stop and eat.

Well, I'm with Aunt Lucille. I don't believe children should ask for food when they are guests, and I think you should have congratulated her for refusing to knuckle under. One little girl who comes here with her mother drives me nuts whining and begging for candy and cookies. Finally, after being asked for the fifth time, "Why don't you give me something to eat?" I replied, "Because I don't have anything to give you. You'll just have to starve."

I have a four-year-old child of my own, and he's no angel. When he starts whining for things, whether at home or in company, he gets a swat in the rear, then and there. It's unpleasant, but it's better than embarrassing the hostess.

Thanks for listening, Ann. I feel two degrees cooler already. And I hope you will reconsider.—DEFENCE FOR AUNT LUCILLE

Dear Defence: Thank you for presenting the case. Aunt Lucille isn't on trial, however.

I am, and I plead guilty as charged.

Hundreds of readers wrote to tell me I was wrong—that well-mannered children do not ask for food when they are visiting because it might be embarrassing to the hostess who has nothing to give them. So thank you all who wrote to protest I was wrong.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away several months ago. He drove a new car every year and took great pride in his automobiles. I do not drive.

A neighbor told me it is bad for a car to sit idle and that he would keep the car in shape for me by driving it three or four times a week.

Now he takes the car to work every day and uses it as if it were his. When he puts gas in it he charges it to the station just as my husband did, and I have been paying the bills. Also he keeps telling me he is doing me a favor. Is he right? Any advice?—E. D.

Dear E. D.: Learn to drive, or sell the car. Your arrangement with this freeloader makes no sense.

Florence Nightingale

Education and Aid to Needy Highlight Chapter's Work

"It is important today that the Order make a massive effort to keep abreast of the times and still have humility and love of one another," said Mrs. Harold Menzies, regent, in her report to the annual luncheon meeting of Florence Nightingale Chapter JODE, held Monday at the Pacific Club.

"We as Canadians, either by birth or adoption, are bound together with common interests and the prayer of the Order to guide us and we cannot fail to impart to others the importance of fellowship," she continued.

In paying tribute to Sir Winston Churchill, Mrs. Menzies said that the example of his courage, the inspiration of his leadership and of his life will endure for all time.

"He was the greatest leader of our time and leaves a lasting greatness to the history of the world."

The regent reminded the members that it was 53 years ago the chapter had been organized and referred to the work carried out during those years. She went on to say that the past year had been a profitable year for the chapter financially with, but, but rewarding work for the members.

"Our motto 'Love Never Falteth' has shown in many ways its true meaning," she said.

A large red basket, overflowing with red and white carnations, centred the head table for the occasion.

Among the special guests were Mrs. A. B. Hall, provincial vice-president from Nanaimo; Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, municipal regent; Miss Muriel Thompson, director of nursing and Mrs. Margaret Love, supervisor of nurses' residence, both of Royal Jubilee Hospital and Mrs. Gerald Sullivan. Also among the guests were Mrs. A. Joseph Craddock, former life member of the White Horse Chapter and a former member of the Florence Nightingale Chapter and Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Thier, who provided the musical entertainment following the luncheon.

Mrs. W. C. Hudson in her treasurer's report showed receipts for the year totalled $1,620.26, with expenses amounting to $1,297.36. Funds in the bank as of Jan. 15 of this year, total $313.78. The sum of $1,164.78 was raised from the chapter's various projects during the year.

Mrs. T. Lumsden, secretary, reported that the chapter took an active part in the annual festival last February with the members convening the luncheon. Other projects included a spring bridge tea, coffee party, annual bazaar which realized the sum of $450, and raffle of doll and trunk with proceeds from this totalling $116.80.

Mrs. Lumsden also reported that the chapter assisted the Municipal Chapter in a tag day for the victims of the Alhambra and manned a booth for the purpose of receiving donations for this cause. The sum of $1,920 was raised through these two mediums.

Mrs. G. C. Baker, services at home and abroad convenor, reported that sum of $528 had been spent on this phase of the chapter's work and receipts totalled $276.50 for knitted goods channelled through the municipal chapter.

Twenty kits valued at $42.50 were filled and sent to an Eskimo hospital; four cartons of food, valued at $60, were donated

Local president Mrs. Enid Webster and Washington State president Mrs. V. Booker will be among members of Business and Professional Women's

International Theme At BPW Club Banquet

International understanding through education will be the theme of an address by Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, at the Business and Professional Women's Club International night banquet Saturday evening.

Among special guests attending the banquet will be His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Pearkes, and representatives of provincial and civic governments.

Mrs. V. Booker, president of Washington State Business and Professional Women's club, plans to come from Seattle for the dinner, and other guests are expected from Portland, Port Angeles and Seattle.

Others will come from up-island clubs and from Vancouver, and British Columbia provincial president, Mrs. Ivy Baston of Powell River, will attend.

Entertainment at the banquet will be provided by the Amity Singers conducted by Mr. Rodney Webster, and by the Eversfield Dancers.

On Sunday morning out-of-town and local members will be guests at a coffee party at the club rooms.

Children See Play

Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club took 25 children from the Protestant Orphanage Home to an afternoon performance of Cinderella, at the Oak Bay School auditorium recently. Seven members with their cars, called at the Home for the children and took them safely back. The performance was generously given free by the Theatre Group.

Prince George Home

A home in Prince George is planned by James Barrie Stewart and his bride, the former Sandra Mary Hight, who were married recently in West Vancouver United church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. Y. Hight, Victoria, and the late Captain Hight, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Rita Stewart, Vancouver, and Mr. D. J. Stewart, Port Coquitlam.

Rev. T. A. Oliver officiated at the ceremony for which the church was decorated with large baskets of white stocks and chrysanthemums. Mrs. J. Newman of West Vancouver was soloist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. E. Sims of West Vancouver, the bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory peau de sole enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace at the yoke and waistline. Similar lace appliques accented the slim skirt that was highlighted with a full overskirt that extended into a train. The illusion net veil misted to chapel length from a cluster of peau de sole roses and leaves. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white rosebuds, hyacinths and ivy.

Julie-Anne Hight was maid of honor for her sister, Mrs. Al Morrison was bridesmatron and Miss Joanne Sims, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid. They chose identical gowns of royal blue velvet styled on empire lines with ankle-length slim skirts. Their self-fabric wedding ring headpieces were trimmed with toning illusion net and they carried bouquets of chrysanthemum and Fuji chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Wild, Vancouver, was best man, and guests were ushered to their pews by Mr. Robert Stewart, the groom's brother, and Mr. Rolfe Alden.

Mr. Thomas McKeachie, Victoria, proposed the toast to the bride at a reception that followed in Captano Gardens, West Vancouver.

For travelling, the bride donned a two-piece suit of kelly green wool boucle topped with a black wool coat that featured a matching fox collar. A kelly green hat and black accessories and corsage of white gardenias completed the ensemble.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

BIG GEORGE! by Virgil Partch

"Nice follow-through, George."

Turn Back the Clock

Cancer Can Be Ended!
Revert to Horse, Buggy

By DELOS SMITH
NEW YORK (UPI)—There is a way to stop cancer.

By all automobiles. Force every man and woman to stop smoking. Plug every factory smokestack.

Forbid chemical additives to food. Outlaw pesticides and fertilizers. Halt discharge of wastes into rivers. Stop pill-taking. End the use of X-ray machines.

INDUSTRIAL BY-PRODUCT Science now knows cancer is in considerable part a disease of industrial civilization and if it is ever to be conquered we will have to give up or modify or police many of the products and practices of that civilization.

That will be difficult in the extreme. You know how true this is if you're a cigarette smoker. If you're not, ask one.
The United States in 1964 reached the $1,000,000,000 mark in money spent on cancer research.

PERSUASIVE EVIDENCE
In that billion dollars worth of knowledge is persuasive evidence that cancer became a big-scale killer only when man learned how to start a fire whenever he wished and to control it.

Fire is combustion. Combustion is chemistry in which components of fuels are broken apart molecularly, scrambled and reassembled in new arrangements.

Some of these combustion products are proved cancercausers in laboratory animals.

COAL-FIRE RESIDUE
The very first proved cancer-causer in people was in the residues of fired coal.

Percival Potts, an English surgeon, proved it in 1775 when he identified a cancer which appeared only in chimney sweeps.

This makes Sir Walter Ralligh an unknowing friend of cancer. He began the popularization of tobacco smoking which places intense combustion at human lips and pours the products into the human breathing apparatus.

INVENTORS, TOO
So were all the inventors who increased the scale and intensity of man's combustions until now the atmosphere is everywhere contaminated with the combustion products of uncountable billions upon billions of cars, trucks, buses, planes, factory stacks and household chimneys.

Firemaking led man into becoming a superlative chemist.
He first smelted minerals and then broke down the natural molecules.

He rooted out and put into commonplace use tens of thousands of natural compounds of mineral, vegetable and animal origin.

NOW PLAYS GOD
Now he plays God with molecules by making his own.

There is scarcely a natural fiber or sinew for which he has not made a substitute.

His intricate molecules combine with natural nutrients to preserve meats and vegetables or to tenderize them or color them.

Western Liberals Dissent End Monarchy, Students Urge

By ALEX MORIN
OTTAWA (CP) — After showing little enthusiasm in a long list of committee-approved resolutions on international affairs, the general membership of the Canadian University Liberal Federation set the organization on its ears Sunday with a couple of suggestions from the floor.

The most controversial was approval of a resolution advocating an end to the monarchy in Canada.

Approved by a vote of 36 to 23, it would make the government of Canada's chief of state, in place of the Queen.

Another unexpected resolution saved for the end of the federation's annual meeting asked that the Liberal Party demand the resignation of Montreal MP Edward T. Asselin.

It said that the demand was in line with Prime Minister Pearson's call for political honesty and integrity within the party.

The resolution was prompted by a commission report which last year branded profits made in a land deal by Mr. Asselin as "objectionable, unconscionable and immoral."

Tories Blamed
In a speech to CULF delegates Saturday, Prime Minister Pearson said the Conservative Party was responsible for much of the bad publicity the government has been getting, and told the students not to be misled by headlines, but to read on in the small print for the facts.

"When a party is in difficulty as is the Conservative Party, and when they are so bitterly divided as they are, you can be sure they will do everything they possibly can to take the public mind off their difficulties by directing charges, however unfounded they might be, against us."

Vote Denounced
Mr. Pearson said he was concerned about "any allegation and any charge and any insinuation" made against the Liberal Party or its members, but he would not allow "false insinuations and suspicious smokecreens . . . to pressure me into doing the wrong thing in order to establish the right superficial image."

The resolution to abolish the monarchy was denounced immediately by Western Canada delegates. They issued a statement complaining that off-the resolution had come at the end of a long meeting when fewer than half the clubs were represented.

Now Policy
That statement was followed immediately by another issued by the new national president, 20-year-old Tony Pearson of Bishop's University, Sherbrooke, Que.

He said the decision had been made "in accord with establishment procedure and is the official policy of the Canadian University Liberal Federation" and would be sent to officials of the government and of the party along with all other resolutions passed.

Left Early
Gib Clarke of the University of Alberta, one of the opponents of the resolution, charged that late introduction from the floor had been a "technique" to take advantage of the departure of many delegates leaving the meeting early.

The resolution, sponsored by the Liberal Club of Montreal's Sir George Williams University night division, and seconded by the University of Western Ontario, is identical to one passed in January at the Ontario University Liberal Federation's "thinkers" conference at London, Ont.

Hanging Opposed
The meeting also was in favor of the abolition of the death penalty and elimination of corporal punishment. However, the resolution said there should be no automatic parole in cases involving capital murder.

Another resolution carried by the meeting asked that Time Magazine of Canada not be exempt from government legislation on advertising write-offs.

Senior Citizens
Gagliardi Helping To Organize
Housing Project

Highways Minister Gagliardi is one of the organizers of a low-rental senior citizens housing project in Kamloops.

He and six other persons are listed as the first directors of the Kamloops Silver Threads Apartment Society which will provide housing for members of The Calvary Temple and executive members of the Pentecostal Assembly of Canada.

Other directors include Alex
Cassidy, a fire expert; Earl H.
Cherry, a mechanic; Larry Janley, a contractor; all of Kamloops, and three Toronto ministers, Rev. Tom Johnston,
Rev. C. M. Wortman and Rev.
C. Suller.

RELIEVE POVERTY
One of the objects of the new society, registered in the provincial companies office Jan.
25, 1965, is "to relieve conditions of poverty within the city of Kamloops . . . and the surrounding districts and community . . ."

The non-profit charitable organization is intended to "assist in the construction or reconstruction of low rental apartments for elderly citizens of low income who are unable to purchase adequate accommodation . . ."

The society will receive charitable donations, apply for all lawful and necessary grants in aid, and make grants towards the cost of construction or reconstruction.

Seven regular directors are to be named during the society's annual meeting which will be held in Kamloops in October.

One of the provisions outlined by the new society is that "all officers, managers, members of the board of managers, agents and employers shall be subject to removal from office or employment at any time with or without cause and with or without notice to the person so removed."

Tory Leader
To Be Salaried CALGARY (CP) — The new Alberta Conservative party leader will be a full-time salaried worker, Dr. John Porter of Calgary, president of the provincial Conservative Association, said Monday.

The party, without a leader since A. M. Harradence resigned nearly a year ago, will select one at a convention
March 19-20 in Edmonton.

At least two men are expected

Crimes Induced By Easy Credit?

The ease with which credit accounts can be opened could be an inducement to crime, Magistrate William Ostler said in his court Monday.

He made the remark after 22-year-old Kenneth Hodges, 291 Rosebank, pleaded guilty to obtaining a $75 suit from the Hudson's Bay Company, downtown Victoria, last Dec. 22 by opening a credit account under a fictitious name.

Hodges gave himself up to city police last Saturday, saying he wanted to clear his conscience.

He was remanded until Feb. 16 for sentence.

Robert Branter, 104 Dallas, was fined $50 for causing wilful damage.

Branter had pleaded guilty to breaking a window Dec. 21 in the apartment of Mrs. Ruth Elizabeth McDougall, same address, in an attempt to enter the apartment.

Last Thursday Mrs. McDougall was committed for trial on a charge of attempting to murder Branter on Jan. 15.

Burglary Case

Detectives Quote Accused

The crown concluded its evidence in a burglary case in Victoria assize court Monday afternoon.

Two Saanich detectives told the jury about their investigation of a burglary at Newton Garden Apartments, 1720 Newton Street, Nov. 30.

They also repeated statements said to have been made by the accused, Robert Peter Martynszyn, 1731 Mortimer.

APARTMENT 123

Detective W. L. Stevenson said the accused was asked if he took 10 pounds of meat from apartment 123.

"What would I take meat for? I have a whole locker full of meat," the accused was quoted as replying.

Detectives Stevenson and Charles Truett said a search was made of Martynszyn's car while it was parked at Newton Garden Apartments, but no meat was found.

NEVER RECOVERED

The meat was never recovered, court was told.

Detectives said they told the accused a man had been seen dropping to the ground from a sundeck at the apartment block.

Martynszyn was asked if he did that. Det. Stevenson said the accused replied: "Yes I think so, I don't remember."

ACCUSED QUOTED

Asked if he broke into the apartment the accused was quoted as saying: "I didn't break in, the door was unlocked."

The case is being heard before Mr. Justice R. A. Woodson. W. R. McIntyre is acting for the crown and defence counsel is Brian Roberts.

Rogers Pass, Route 16 Open Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Rogers Pass and Highway 16 between Prince George and Prince Rupert were closed to traffic over the weekend, but were open again Monday.

The Trans-Canada Highway through the pass was closed Saturday night because of a small slide.

The Prince Rupert Highway was closed several times Sunday due to three small slides which blocked the highway about 35 miles from Terrace.

A youth pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident and to driving without insurance.

The youth, John Cannon, 20, of 1051 Hyacinth, drove into the rear of a moving car on Lansdowne, Sunday morning.

Cannon told police he left the scene because he knew the accident was his fault and he was scared.

He was remanded until today for sentence.

***

Remanded to Feb. 16 for sentence was truck driver Frederick Doherty, 3925, Glandford, who pleaded guilty to impaired driving after he drove his truck off Admirals Road early Sunday morning.

Doherty told police he had consumed about 10 beers.

Magistrate Ostler allowed 18-year-old Wayne Fisher, 2531

Government, who last Tuesday pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge, to change his plea to one of not guilty.

Fisher was remanded until Feb. 16 for trial.

White Cane Week Opens

Blind Show Talents

British Columbians with the gift of sight were asked Monday to use it in a week-long look at the achievements and problems of the blind.

White Cane Week, a nationally-observed period, was launched in a brief ceremony at the Canadian Institute for the Blind service centre, 1609 Blanshard.

Close to 100 guests, blind and sighted, heard Lieutenant Governor Pearkes read a royal proclamation setting aside Feb. 7-13 as White Cane Week.

The proclamation said, in part: "... the purpose of White Cane Week is to acquaint all persons with the abilities, achievements and needs of blind persons; to create an awareness of the value of good eyesight; to stress the importance of prompt treatment of eye diseases; and the prevention of eye accidents."

Lieutenant Governor Pearkes added his personal plea to the public to give "every support, both personal and financial" to the work of helping the blind to help themselves.

Two tournaments are planned. At 2 p.m. today a public demonstration of table bowling will be held at the centre by blind and sighted players.

Friday at 1:45 p.m. a cribbage tournament of 20 blind and sighted players will demonstrate use of special playing cards marked in Braille.

Following the reading of the proclamation a public tea was held and later blind persons demonstrated handicraft and recreational activities carried on at the 13-year-old centre.

Officials and guests saw assembling, sorting and laundry operations in the occupational shop and special cribbage, chess and table bowling demonstrations.

U.S. Students See MLAs In Action

Fifteen University of Western Washington students will leave Victoria today after a two-day visit in the capital to see the legislature in action.

The students arrived in Victoria Monday and, after a luncheon with legislative clerk H. K. Debeck, toured the legislative buildings.

A dinner was given for the students by Attorney-General Bonner.

They will tour the University of Victoria campus and will meet university president Dr. Malcolm Taylor before returning home.

Thirty-five University of Victoria students leave here Wednesday for a visit to the Washington state capital of Olympia.

As guests of Tacoma's Pacific Lutheran College, they will meet the lieutenant-governor, speaker, senators, representatives and supreme court chief justice.

They will tour the Senate, House and Supreme Court before returning Friday.

U.S. Planes Blast Red Camps

IT'S EYE FOR AN EYE IN NORTH VIET NAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—American and South Vietnamese warplanes rained bombs on Communist military camps in North Viet Nam again Monday amid signs of a strike-for-strike policy in the battle against Communist guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam.

U.S. congressional leaders indicated President Johnson and the National Security Council had decided to answer with air assaults any new Communist attacks on U.S. troops or installations in South Viet Nam.

While they would not talk for quotation, this clearly was their understanding after Johnson and his senior advisers got a report from McGeorge Bundy, a presidential aide who returned Sunday night from a special mission to South Viet Nam.

Monday's second wave of retaliatory action against North Viet Nam—the first attack was Sunday—left in flames Communist installations in three villages near the southern border.

President Johnson, who has declared the U.S. seeks no wider war in Viet Nam, vowed the U.S. will do anything necessary to preserve freedom.

Johnson, addressing a dozen boy scouts at the White House, did not mention South Viet Nam, but he said:

"... We shall take up any challenge, answer any threat, pay any price to make certain that freedom shall not perish from this earth."

Waiting Peking Adds Warning

TOKYO (AP)—China coupled a pledge of support for Communist North Viet Nam with a threat Monday: "The U.S. imperialists must understand... the day you extend the aggressive war will be the day you hasten into the grave."

'Battle Array'

Peking's People's Daily backed up the warning against aggression by saying in an editorial:

"To be frank, we are waiting for you in battle array. If you insist on imposing the war on us, heavy rebuffs are in store for you."

The Soviet government, competing with Peking for friends and influence in Southeast Asia, also condemned the U.S.-South Vietnamese air strikes Sunday and Monday against North Viet Nam.

Premier Kosygin declared at a Soviet embassy reception in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, the situation is "fraught with serious complications, for which the United States of America will bear full responsibility."

The Soviet leader, who pledged Russian aid to North Viet Nam in a speech a few hours before Sunday's air strikes

Thrasher-Balcer

Tory Decision Spurs Insults

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard Thrasher, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, and Quebec leader Leon Balcer traded insults Monday after the weekend decision to reject a leadership convention over John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Thrasher, commenting on Mr. Balcer's call Sunday for a scrutiny of ballots filled in by the national executive, accused the Quebec leader of "despicable treachery" and a lack of guts.

He said to suggest the rejection of a leadership convention ran counter to the trend of the meeting questions the integrity of him and the two other men who made the tabulation.

"While I don't speak for the others, I say to those who make such insinuations and innuendo—they are false, you engage in despicable treachery and undermine confidence in our association and the party as a whole," Mr. Thrasher said.

Informed of Mr. Thrasher's comment, Mr. Balcer shot back: "Poor little boy. If he is so pure why doesn't he publish the figures?"

IN CONFLICT
Party President Dalton T. Camp announced Sunday that a leadership convention had been rejected.

Mr. Balcer, who initiated the move for the executive meeting and wants Mr. Diefenbaker replaced, said the decision was in conflict with the trend of Saturday's meeting.

"I trust Mr. Diefenbaker will have no objection to the examination of the complete figures and the voting slips on which they are based," he said.

DC7: Tragedy and near-miss

Off Long Island

Airliner Dives Into Sea Carrying 84 to Death

NEW YORK (AP)—An Eastern Air Lines propeller-driven airliner with 84 persons aboard crashed into the Atlantic ocean with fiery impact Monday night, minutes after takeoff from Kennedy Airport.

Not until four hours later was the first body recovered from the dark, ice-cold waters about 14 miles from the airport.

A fishing boat, the Jessy Lou, came across it. There was no trace of survivors in what apparently was the worst U.S. air disaster in nearly a year.

Cause of the crash was a mystery. The crew of the four-engine DC-7B gave no inkling of any impending trouble prior to the crash off Long Island's south shore.

"ALL NORMAL"
Chris Walk, a spokesman for the federal aviation agency, said:

"We have no information to indicate sabotage, bombing or anything of the sort. Weather was not a factor in this crash. Everything was normal as far as we know at this time."

Witnesses reported seeing the plane explode in the air, then disappear into the sea beneath a funeral pyre of orange flames.

ONLY OIL BLICK
However, Walk declared:

"The information that we have at this time does not indicate that there was any explosion or flames before the plane hit the water."

The plane was at about 3,500 feet when it plunged into the sea, leaving only an oil slick as an immediate mark of the disaster. Three hours later the first bits of wreckage were recovered: some cushions, plastic bags and a section of fuselage.

CANADIAN GRIEL
The site of the crash was eight miles off Jones Beach, a summer playground 35 miles from Manhattan.

One of the plane's two stewards was a Canadian—Judith Ann Durkin, 23, formerly of Ottawa. Other crew members were United States citizens and all passengers were believed U.S. as well.

Miss Durkin lived in Winthrop, Mass., but her parents still live in Ottawa.

Witnesses said an engine exploded during the take-off. The plane was taking winter tourists back to Copenhagen after a holiday at this Canary Island resort.

In New York, an airline spokesman said there were no Americans or Canadians aboard.

Witnesses said the pilot managed to bring the crippled airliner to a halt and "with flames spreading, all passengers and the crew managed to get clear."

The plane was leased to a European charter company, Scanair, by the Scandinavian Airlines System.

When O'Connor persisted in his declaration of innocence, they sent him to hospital for a further check.

The medical men found that the fillings in his teeth and a scar on his stomach matched those of the missing O'Connor.

Civilian O'Connor was released.

There was no explanation as to how the two O'Connors

happened to have the same health card number, a fact which the army spokesman said was "incredible, for a start."

In Dublin, the mother of the original O'Connor said her son came home on leave and "didn't bother to return." He intends to stay there, where the British army cannot touch him.

91 Escape Flaming Death

TENERIFE, Canary Islands (UPI)—A chartered DC-7B airliner with 91 people aboard burst into flames Monday after an aborted take-off at Los Rodeos Airport.

Airport officials said the plane was destroyed. Seven people reportedly suffered slight injuries.

Witnesses said the pilot managed to bring the crippled airliner to a halt and "with flames spreading, all passengers and the crew managed to get clear."

Everything About Pat Matched

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—For 13 months the British Army searched for Patrick O'Connor, 20, who deserted while serving with the army catering corps in West Germany in November, 1963.

Finally, through his national health insurance number, they tracked down Patrick O'Connor, 20, working for a London catering firm.

He told them they had the wrong man.

They investigated and every bit of information they uncovered checked with the record of the wanted man, simply by forcing their conviction they had the right man.

Aside from the fact he had the national health number they were looking for and the same name, records also showed he was born in Southern Ireland and on the same date as the man they wanted.

When O'Connor persisted in his declaration of innocence, they sent him to hospital for a further check.

The medical men found that the fillings in his teeth and a scar on his stomach matched those of the missing O'Connor.

For five days the army was satisfied it had the right man.

Then, from Dublin, came word from the mother of soldier O'Connor that her son was there with her and that the man in the guardroom was innocent.

Civilian O'Connor was released.

There was no explanation as to how the two O'Connors

happened to have the same health card number, a fact which the army spokesman said was "incredible, for a start."

In Dublin, the mother of the original O'Connor said her son came home on leave and "didn't bother to return." He intends to stay there, where the British army cannot touch him.

The premier wasn't in the House at the time, and Attorney General Robert Bennett rose to object.

By IAN STREET

Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett was accused in the legislature Monday of padding figures and shuffling percentages to make his 1965 budget look better.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said if any company promoter or stock and bond salesman used tactics and figures like that, he would go to jail.

The premier wasn't in the House at the time, and Attorney General Robert Bennett rose to object.

"The leader of the opposition in his enthusiasm has reflected unfairly upon the premier, and I think he should reconsider," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Strachan, however, simply went on with his speech. He said in this budget Mr. Bennett outdid himself in self-delusion.

"He shuffled percentages, percentage of total budget, percentage of total increase, percentage over 1962. He gave all these percentages in a variety of combinations of provincial departments," the opposition leader said.

homeowner grant and the medical grant as the whim took him."

Mr. Strachan said that on Page 22 of the budget the premier says education will receive $21,132,000, or 42 per cent of the total increase.

But on Page 39 the premier says:

"The department of education again receives the largest increase of $15,410,000."

The opposition leader branded as completely false another statement contained in the budget that the increase in educational appropriations for the coming

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

It is almost always irritating when the hucksters of television stick their grubby little fingers into sports, dictating dates and sites and conditions, and even reshaping the rules nearer to their heart's desire. Yet it is a mistake to lay all the blame on the space cadets. After all, buying entertainment wholesale and retailing it over the air is their business and all of us trade at their store, sometimes gratefully.

The real culprits are the hucksters of sports who sell out to television. Add now to this rogues' gallery the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, stewards of a sport that is forever taking turns as a "gentleman's game."

To the astonishment of a membership that was never consulted, the USGA brass has thrown tradition out the window for the sake of TV loot.

The National Open championship, whose 36-hole ordeal on the third and final day made it one of the most searching tests and thrilling competitions in sports, has been cut up into four daily rounds of 18 holes to make a fat weekend show for television. This gives it precisely the same character as, and all the distinction of the Azalea Open in Wilmington, N.C.

The U.S. amateur, which has enjoyed a unique position as the last match-play tournament of consequence, will consist henceforth of four 18-hole rounds of medal, or stroke, play. Thus it achieves a gray sameness with every competition on the pro circuit, except that its players aren't so good.

As Sounding Brass

The USGA executive committee speaks for 3,030 member clubs, not one of which was consulted, apparently, until the changes were announced as a fait accompli. The whole thing was railroaded through in secrecy and haste, like the sale of the Yankees.

With the announcement came transparently phony explanations; more than that, spokesmen have had the audacity to deny that television gold was a factor. They are not telling the truth.

"Stroke play is consistently the most conclusive test of skill," they said, explaining the remodeling of the amateur. It is a conclusion tardily reached. The first amateur championships—there were two that year—were held in 1894, one at match play and one at medal. Ever since then, the title has been decided by match play.

No sponsor will buy a championship at match play, for obvious reasons. In the title round, when interest is highest, only two men remain in competition. If the cameras are set up on the last four holes, the final match may never reach them. About three times out of five, the winner of the Amateur has ended the match five-up on the 14th hole or sooner.

Emasculation

Through 70 years of competition for the National Open title, the Old Turks of the USGA have brushed off complaints about that brutal grind of 36 holes in one day. "Stamina," they said, "is one of the prerequisites of an Open champion."

They were right. If a Ken Venturi could totter through eight hours of sunstroke and still win, then by the Lord Harry Vardon, he was a real Open champion, as indeed he is.

Now they say it was inhuman to keep poor Venturi on the course for eight hours and 24 minutes last summer. They say tournaments are played so slowly now that "any suspension of play because of weather could irreparably damage the schedule."

Play has been suspended because of weather and it has been extended because of ties many times. It was always possible to go on to a decision. The only schedule that can be damaged "irreparably" is a television schedule.

By changing the Open schedule from Thursday-through-Saturday to four 18-hole rounds, from Thursday through Sunday, the USGA gets a big fat Saturday and Sunday on TV. Don't believe any other reason.

Then There Was One

Up to 1958 there were four great golf championships in this country—the Open, the Masters, the U.S. amateurs, and the Professional Golfers Association. The amateur and the PGA were something special, because they were at match play; you could watch Byron Nelson with his wide cat's grin eyeing Sam Snead and asking himself, "Shall I toy with him a little longer or eat him up now?" And it was as good as a heavyweight championship fight.

Then the pros changed the PGA to stroke play, and it became just another whistle stop on the annual tour. A lot of fans remember 1958 when Paul Runyan murdered Snead, 8 and 7, at Shawnee-on-Deleware. How many readers can name the present PGA champion and tell where he won the title and how?

There were four great championships, but the PGA got lost and then there were three. Now they're aborting the Open and the Amateur, and soon we'll have one—the Masters.

There will be more money for a little while, thanks to TV. But golf is already overexposed on television. It has passed the saturation point and the future is clear. The story of golf on television will repeat the story of boxing on television. Only the blind refuse to see it.

Athletics, Grocers Rush to Showdown

No surprises, it seems, are in store in the Inter-City Senior Men's Basketball League play-downs.

Vancouver Grocers and Alberni Athletics are both moving along in expected fashion to the final, both taking 2-0 leads in their best-of-five semi-finals on Sunday.

Led again by Billy-Joe Price, who accounted for 21 points, Grocers whipped Victoria Haida Chiefs, 80-49, in Vancouver. At the same time, in Alberni, Athletics eased by New Westminster Bakers, 73-48.

Darrell Lorimer matched Price's 21 points and Pete Simmonds scored 14 points but the Chiefs lacked the balance to match Grocers.

Don Krego and Neil Drom, with 18 and 16 points, respectively, led a balanced Alberni attack.

Hourigan's, Wests Remain Deadlocked

George	10	5	6	1	17
Kingsmen	10	4	6	4	16

Hourigan's, Wests and Victoria West maintained their first-place tie in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division Sunday with shutout victories.

Hourigan's blanked George Molsons, 3-0, on goals by Gunter Beyer, Volker Stoldt and Herry Vanderhorst, while Doug Hill and Bill Harris counted in Wests' 2-0 win over Navy.

STAY CLOSE

Price and Smith remained one point behind the leaders with a 3-0 win over Brodie Bakers. Maurice Bunyan scored twice and Del McIntyre once in this game.

Bruce Wallace scored three goals and Glen Robbins two in Oak Bay Marina's 9-1 victory over Dunlops in second division play. Oak Bay edged Wanderers, 1-0, in another game.

Ex-Officials Gather Friday 'To Blow Whistle' On NHL

Eddie Powers

George Hayes

OTTAWA (UPI)—Former National Hockey League lineman George Hayes said Monday he—along with ex-referee Eddie Powers and Dalton McArthur—were going to "blow the whistle on the National Hockey League" this Friday.

Hayes told an Ottawa radio station the three were going to hold a news conference in Toronto to explain the whole story behind reports a 1962 Boston-New York game was rigged.

Bruins' owner Weston Adams

said yesterday he was going to ask league president Clarence Campbell for a full explanation of reports concerning the March 22 game won by the Rangers 4-3. Powers has charged that referee-in-chief Carl Voss, reportedly planning to retire at the end of the season, urged McArthur in a pre-game meeting to favor the Rangers by calling "only good penalties" against them.

"Everything Powers said was true—but there's a lot more to it," Hayes said in the telephone interview at his Beachburg, Ont., home today.

Voss has admitted he was in the referees' dressing room before the game but said he did not mention New York when urging McArthur to call "only good penalties."

Rangers were one point up on Detroit Red Wings in a tight battle for the fourth and final playoff berth at the time. Both teams had two games to play and the New York win gave them a three-point bulge and virtually eliminated the Red Wings.

Powers, who resigned from the NHL in 1963, has said he could prove his charges. Hayes was fired last week after refusing to submit to an eye examination.

"Sure I miss it," Hayes said when asked if he regretted leaving the game. "But 19 years under Campbell is too much."

"He's a conceted, self-centred dictator," the station quoted Hayes as saying.

Boston Owner Asks for Investigation

BOSTON (UPI)—Boston Bruins owner Weston Adams plans to ask National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell for a full explanation of reports that a 1962 Boston-New York game was rigged.

Adams cited charges made by former referee Eddie Powers about the March 22, 1962, game won by the Rangers, 4-3. He said he had heard rumors about the game before, but had been told by Campbell that they were "old hat."

"But in light of these new developments, I will want a full report," said Adams, who replaced the late Walter Brown on the league's board of governors.

"I think that it is my obligation to the Bruins and our fans to get all the facts on this situation. I am going to get in touch with Campbell as soon as possible," he said.

IMPORTANT

With two games left for both teams, the Rangers were vying for the fourth and final playoff spot with the Detroit Red Wings, who were one point behind in fifth place. The 4-3 New York victory over the Bruins gave the Rangers a three-point bulge and virtually clinched the berth. Detroit was eliminated a few days later.

Powers, who resigned from the NHL in February, 1963 after claiming that Campbell failed to back up the referees, says he could prove the charges. Deposed lineman George Hayes, who also worked the game, has supported Powers' charge. Hayes was fired by the league last week after refusing to submit to an eye examination.

DENIES CHARGE

Voss, who reportedly is planning to retire at the end of the season, admitted that he was in the referees' locker room before the New York-Boston game. However, he said he did not mention New York when he remarked to McArthur, "call only good penalties."

Game reports which appeared in two Boston newspapers the morning after the game make for interesting reading in view of this latest development in the NHL officiating squabble.

The late Ralph Wheeler, writing in the Herald, said the Rangers' triumph was "achieved by a combination of early foot by the Blue Shirts and acute astigmatism on the part of referee Dalton McArthur."

Wheeler noted that one incensed fan struck McArthur at the end of the second period.

WAS UNDER FIRE

"He (McArthur) overlooked innumerable instances of holding and interference by the Rangers in one of the most inefficient refereeing jobs of the season. The crowd of 9,011 left little doubt of their opinion regarding his incompetency."

Boston Globe sports writer Tom Fitzgerald, under a headline reading "Hoot Referee as N.Y. Wins," composed the following lead paragraph: "Thanks to fairly generous assistance from referee Dalton McArthur, the New York Rangers moved closer to clinching the fourth Stanley Cup playoff spot last night in the Garden by snatching a 4-3 decision from the Bruins."

Handy Wins Open Playoff

Esquimalt and St. Louis recorded opening game victories Monday night as Victoria and District Amateur Basketball Association midged boys' semi-final playoffs started.

Esquimalt registered a 55-17 win over Metropolitan while St. Louis beat St. Patrick's, 58-31.

Both are best-of-three rounds, which continue Friday night with Esquimalt at Metropolitan and St. Louis at St. Patrick's.

Just Dead Horse Claims Campbell

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today that, as far as he's concerned, Eddie Powers' charges of game manipulation are old hat and not worth doing anything about.

"We're not going to do anything about it," Campbell said in an interview. "We fought all this out a year ago and there's nothing new now to justify doing anything at this time."

Powers, who resigned as an NHL referee a year, said in Toronto Friday he has accumulated evidence that a 1962 game between Boston and New York was manipulated by the officials on orders by Campbell and referee-in-chief Carl Voss.

He said he had asked for a hearing before the league's board of governors, but had been refused.

"I imagine he covered the whole gambit then and there was no indication following that meeting that anything more was required."

Campbell said he has seen Powers' alleged evidence of game manipulation a year ago and was unimpressed by it. Campbell would be happy some time in the future to disclose "just where he got some of this material."

Campbell accused Powers, who quit the NHL, complaining officials were not backed up by Campbell and Voss, of "sticking his nose into something that isn't his business."

"Nothing had ever been heard about this from anyone until he started to stir things up. What business is it of his?"

"He's just trying to put on a big show."

Campbell said Dalton McArthur, who refereed the game in question, has never complained about it. McArthur also resigned from the NHL officiating staff last season.

Island Curlers Win First Game

KIMBERLEY (CP)—Mrs. Frank Serjeant won a point on an extra end last night to give her Campbell River rink a 5-3 victory over Trail's Isabel Morris at the opening of the British Columbia women's curling championship.

Mrs. Serjeant's Pacific Coast zone champions tied the score, 8-8, on the 10th end in a see-saw contest with the Kootenay zone winner.

Fastest Skater? Three Say Keon

NEW YORK (CP)—Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs has been named the National Hockey League's fastest skater and Bob Pulford, another Leaf centre, was selected the best penalty killer in a poll of the circuit's coaches.

The poll also resulted in the selection of Bobby Hull as possessing the hardest shot, Toronto's Bobby Baun as the hardest bodychecker among the defencemen, and Detroit's Gordie Howe as most likely to score on breakaways.

Keon received three votes as the fastest skater while Hull collected two and Montreal Canadiens' Henri Richard had one.

Pulford polled four votes as the outstanding penalty-killer. Don Marshall of New York Rangers was named on the other two ballots. Baun topped the hardest-bodychecker balloting with three votes. Boston's Leo Babin had two and Ted Green, another Bruin, received one.

Wings Five Points Away In Tightening NHL Race

Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens are going opposite ways in a National Hockey League race that begins to look more and more unsettled in the four-team battle for playoff position.

Wings, hottest club in the league at the moment with six wins in their last seven games, trampled Canadiens, 6-0, on Sunday night to leave only five points between the Stanley Cup contenders. It was the fourth successive loss for Canadiens, the first time in more than eight years that the Montreal club has lost four in a row.

Coupled with Toronto's hard-earned 2-1 win over Chicago Black Hawks, it left the Hawks two points ahead of Canadiens, four points ahead of Leafs and five points ahead of Wings, who have three games in hand on Chicago and Toronto.

Two goals in the first two minutes of the second period, after a rough, scoreless first period, sent the Wings on their way and they were in charge of action from then on. The second goal was by Gordie Howe, and it completed a cycle for the veteran winger. He has now scored at least 100 career goals against each of the other five clubs.

Leafs took a 2-0 lead on goals by Dave Keon and Frank Mahovlich and made them stand up as Johnny Bower came up with some clutch saves in Chicago.

Hawks played without Bobby Hull, who injured ligaments in his right knee on Saturday and will probably have to miss at least two more games. Hull will then only have 18 games left in which to get the 13 goals he needs to break the NHL record of 50 in one season.

Sunday's other game saw New York Rangers 1-0 in Boston Bruins, 3-3, as Rod Gilbert and newly-acquired Doug Robinson each scored twice.

Student Rink Rallies To Take B.C. Honors

KAMLOOPS — A scrappy, unpredictable University of British Columbia rink, making up for lack of experience by an ability to come up with big shots when needed, will represent B.C. in the Canadian men's curling championships at Saskatoon, March 1-5.

Jack Arnet and Terry Miller, both former Port Alberni curlers, and Glen Walker and Soren Jensen won the provincial final on Sunday by defeating B.C. McElroy of Trill in a best-of-three series which went the limit.

LOOKED BAD — Getting together just before provincial playdowns started, the UBC rink seemed headed for elimination, starting the sixth end of the second game.

It did little right in the early part of the first game in going down to a 1-3 trouncing but seemed to be coming on at the finish. But McElroy, supported by John Cameron and Tom and Dan Feeney, pushed to a 4-1 lead after five ends of the second game and seemed headed for two in a row until Cameron missed both his shots on the sixth end.

TOO THE CHANCE — Arnet took full advantage, cracking through for a four-ender by coming around a guard to chip out McElroy's counter.

Taking heart after the sudden reversal, the UBC rink seldom made a mistake after that. Arnet had to go an extra end to square matters with a 10-4 win and the youngsters, who at 23 1/2 years average are the youngest rink to ever represent B.C. in the Canadian final, kept pressure on McElroy all the way in the deciding game to win handily, 9-4.

Ahead, 3-2, starting the sixth end, Arnet stole two points, setting it up with a raise through a port to the four-foot ring which left him counting three. McElroy managed to get one rock out trying the same port, then wrecked with a draw attempt after Arnet had plugged the gap with his last rock.

It became only a matter of time on the seventh end when Arnet stole another pair for a 7-2 haul. Two grezes by Walker left Arnet sitting pretty and he added his two points when McElroy missed with his last rock, an out-turn takeout which was a bit too quiet and slid by on the inside.

Tinling Nabs Senior Title

KAMLOOPS — Vancouver's Fred Tinling, who played on four British Columbia rinks in the Canadian final for the Brier Tankard, will play a fifth Canadian final this year as skip of the provincial senior champions.

The 55-year-old Tinling, ably supported by 59-year-old Frank Law, 55-year-old Eck Woods and 59-year-old Howard Williamson, won the provincial title Sunday with 10-5 and 10-4 victories over Milt Ryalls of Nelson.

Tinling and his rink now go to Port Arthur to compete in the first Canadian senior championship — minimum age 55 — March 22-27.

Gervais Favored In Alberta Final

DAWSON CREEK—Huge Hector Gervais, 1961 Canadian champion, appears the skip to beat here this weekend in the Alberta curling final.

Gervais and his rink qualified for the four-rink playoff at Edmonton over the weekend by rolling over Norm Rose of Sedgewick, 10-3, in the Northern Alberta final. It was the ninth straight playoff victory for the chicken rancher from St. Albert, who curls out of Edmonton.

Arguing with Gervais over the trip to Saskatoon for the Canadian final next month will be Nick Lashuk of Calgary, Mel Watchorn of Fairview and Max Anderson of Yellowknife.

ANOTHER CHANCE — Lashuk, beaten out in the provincial final by Gervais in 1961, regained the Southern Alberta championship with a 7-5 victory over Barry Coleman of Red Deer. Two precise raises good for many points decided the issue on the 10th end.

Final Stroke Gives Billy $15,000 Win

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper tapped in a three-foot birdie putt on the last hole Sunday to win the $15,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

It gave Casper a last-round 70 for a 348 in the 90-hole tournament, one stroke less than the totals of Arnold Palmer and Tommy Aaron, who each earned $6,000 for their second-place tie.

Jack Nicklaus, Frank Beard and Dave Marr finished in a fourth-place tie at 352. Among other winners was Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who won $1,300 for his 357. Toronto's George Knudson missed the 72-hole cut of 293 after rounds of 74, 73 and 75.

Casper shot a five-under-par 67, giving him a 72-hole score of 276 and a lead of two strokes going into today's final round of the 90-hole tournament.

PEE-WEEES WIN — Victoria pee-wees blanked Delta, 3-0, in an exhibition hockey game at Delta yesterday.

Casper Leads Hope Golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The big sum of golf finally spoke Saturday and when the firing was over Bill Casper, Jr., topped the field in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Casper shot a five-under-par 67, giving him a 72-hole score of 276 and a lead of two strokes going into today's final round of the 90-hole tournament.

Team Tenpin Honor For Mayfair Lanes

Only two spars separated the first three teams when play ended Sunday night at Aurora Lanes in the team event of the city tenpin championships.

Honors went to Mayfair Lanes who finished with a great rush in the third game for a 961 scratch total which boosted their three-game gross pinfall to 3,023. Don McGimpsey was only 10 pins behind, and only four ahead of Harknett Fuel, the third team to get over 3,000 on a day when most bowlers ran into split troubles.

BIG FINISH — Mayfair started off rather ineffectively with a 751 effort, heaved it to 881 in the second game and then closed out with a fine 961 scratch as leadoff-man Iver Hansen and anchorman Keith Snelling both got 234.

It was the second big game for Snelling, who started with 168 and then got his big hook working to mark up a 244 before his 234. It gave him a 647 and the lead in the scratch all events.

Rick Blake, who had the day's high single, and Orel Moreau were close behind. Blake had 265-200-180 for 645 and Moreau was at 641 with games of 188, 243 and 210.

IT'S POSSIBLE — Biggest single ball of the team event was thrown by George Diamond who cleaned up the "big four" split to earn an ABC chevron.

Nanaimo Chase

Magistrate Amazed None Killed

NANAIMO—"Why you didn't kill somebody or yourself I don't know," Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts told a 19-year-old city youth in magistrate's court Monday, adding, "It was just by the grace of God."

He sentenced Donald Arthur Phillips, Richards Street, to one year in jail after the youth pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal negligence arising from a police chase through the business district during the early afternoon of Jan. 29.

Const. Laurie Marshall told the court he was exercising the police dog, Brandy, in Bowen Park when he saw Phillips in an unlicensed car at the Bowen Road cemetery.

ACROSS GRAVES

He said Phillips backed his car into the dogmaster's car and took off across the graves. Two constables in another police car tried to stop Phillips at Bowen Road, but the latter headed straight for the police vehicles, swerving to avoid it at the last minute.

30 FEET IN AIR

Phillips' speed at the Bowen Road railway tracks was estimated at 60. Const. Marshall said Phillips' car travelled 37 feet in the air after crossing the tracks.

Phillips went through a red light at Terminal and Comox, turned the Comox-Front corner on two wheels, went through two occupied crosswalks while going down Front, swerved through the CCF parking lot on Wharf and sideswiped a parked car before entering Commercial.

WOMAN INJURED

Most cars and pedestrians left this busy street on hearing sirens. Phillips went along Commercial at 30, applying his brakes and jumping out of the still-moving car when he saw a police car blocking Terminal and Commercial.

His car went on to hit a woman alighting from her car, inflicting leg injuries. Phillips was tackled by two policemen and handcuffed by a third.

OTHER CHARGES

A charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident Jan. 29 was dropped and court also considered three charges growing out of a Jan. 20 incident.

That day, Const. Donald Haggerty saw Phillips driving a car equipped with 1963 plates on Wall Street. He turned on his police car's flashing light, got out and motioned to Phillips to stop.

LOST IN TRAFFIC

Phillips didn't, and was lost in traffic. He drove three months for driving while under suspension, one month for failing to stop for police and one month for driving with invalid plates.

These terms are concurrent with the year for negligence but the magistrate added a one-year indeterminate term and a strong recommendation Phillips be transferred to the Haney correctional institute.

TWO FINED

In the same court, Bruce Able, 19, of 2630 Lynburn Crescent, pleaded guilty to careless driving and being a minor in possession of liquor. He was fined a total of $80 and had his driving licence suspended until April 1.

Garry Warner Thompson of Nanaimo pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident, was fined $50 and was prohibited from driving for one month.

Lake Group Meets Tonight

The Prospect Lake District Community Association will meet at 8 tonight in the community hall.

Garden Club To See Slides

The Equinox Garden Club will hold a meeting in Jubilee Hall on Fraser Street at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Color slides of gardens will be shown by Capt. Robert Ford.

'Rescuers' Celebrate

COMOX — Jim Stapleton rowed out Sunday to meet the RCMP who came to rescue him at his remote home 50 miles north of Comox.

They had been told he was suffering from food poisoning, but Stapleton told them he had recovered, and invited them to celebrate his 51st birthday with him.

Outdoor Groups Plan Drive Against Park Mining Town

By JACK FREY

Fifteen outdoor recreation groups from southern Vancouver Island will meet in Victoria to draft organized opposition to the proposed mining town in Strathcona Park.

The meeting, called by W. A. James, chairman of the B.C. Council of Outdoor Clubs, will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Williams Building, 749 Broughton Street.

NEGOTIATING SITE

Recreation Minister Kiernan last week confirmed reports his department is negotiating with a Western Mines subsidiary for the possible location of the mining town.

Final decision apparently has not been reached because the recreation department wants the town built in an area which was gutted by a forest fire, while the company wants a scenic spot several miles away.

GOING TO STAY

Mr. Campbell told the Colonist the mine is there, it is going to stay there and people may as well co-operate to make the housing development as attractive and comfortable as possible for the miners and their families.

"We have developed a mining operation which will be a profitable operation, and present indications are it will have a long life," he said.

"Our own indications show enough for six or seven years, but geologically we anticipate enough for 20 to 25 years."

'NOT SHACK TOWN'

"This means that what we do mean to do is last—it's not a shack town, short-term proposal."

A hundred men are living in single men's housing units at the mine south-west of Butte Lake and up to 300 will work there eventually.

Presumably the company could ask as few as 300 to live in single men's quarters at the mine, but the company wants its married employees to have their families with them, said Mr. Campbell.

'WITHOUT INTERFERING'

"Our only objective is that they live in attractive, comfortable accommodation as close to their work as possible."

"We hope to provide this without substantially interfering with park values."

Several possible townsites are unsuitable:

● The area immediately adjacent to the mine is "without sunlight five months of the year."

● The 10 to 20 square miles of burned area two miles from the mine is so depressing in appearance no one would want to live there.

● "This is just miles of grey spikes — but we are dealing with people who are basic resource developers upon whom the basic economy of B.C. depends, and they are not second-class citizens."

● "The only alternative outside the park is 25 miles from the mine and 30 miles from Campbell River, on privately-owned timber land which preliminary negotiations have indicated is not for sale."

"To create a housing settlement there would be creating nothing, because it is neither at the mine or Campbell River."

"MIDDLE OF NOWHERE" "It would be right in the middle of nowhere," said Mr. Campbell.

"The site we favor is about four or five miles from the mine itself, on the southeast side of the lake, more than half a mile back from the lake shore and 500 feet above the lake in elevation."

"It is one where limited housing development could be created which would give the working men and their families a pleasant outlook — but sufficiently far from the lake that interference with the lake would be at a minimum."

MAYBE BEER PARLOR The only commercial enterprises which the company plans to provide for the community are such basic requirements as a grocery store, a gas station and possibly a beer parlor.

"These are people, and it is better that they should do their drinking there than have a series of fatalities on that road (from Campbell River)."

Ladysmith

Street Ruling Shelved

LADYSMITH — A motion giving the main street, First Avenue, No-U-Turn signs and a 20-mile-an-hour speed limit was rescinded Monday night by city council.

The motion, passed at the last meeting, proposed signs at High, Buller, Getacra and Robert and a 20 limit from Methuen to Symonds. Some merchants said the signs might drive business away and RCMP head Cpl. Ken Sutherland, who favored the signs, said the 20-limit area should be shortened to Kitchener to Baden-Fowell.

THREE ALDERMEN

Council named Aldermen Thomas Davidson, Robert Stillin and John Cochrane to a committee to investigate both matters.

Council decided to hold up the main payment of $7,000 to Hub City Paving of Nanaimo for a $10,000 paving job on 1,300 feet of Victoria Crescent after an alderman asked why driveways were paved. The finance committee will investigate.

The Ladysmith Little Theatre applied for a five-year renewal of its lease on the old Second Avenue school. Ald. Bernard Churchill said the building was "unsightly" and should have been torn down years ago. Council delayed decision.

A petition from eight people on a Craig-Russell block on the city's southwest border asked to join Ladysmith because they might be left out if Saltsir joins North Cowichan. Council agreed on the merger.

Hospital Stay Prolonged

Saanich councillor Leslie Passmore will be in St. Joseph's Hospital for another two weeks undergoing prostate gland treatment. He entered hospital Jan. 30.

City Council

Duncan and Indians Talk Development

DUNCAN — General development in the Trunk Road area and other parts of the Cowichan district were discussed by city council and Cowichan Indian band leaders Monday night following a regular council meeting.

The Indians disclosed Saturday they may develop a light industrial area south of Trunk Road on their own instead of with the city.

NOTHING DEFINITE

Mayor Jack Dobson said water, road and other projects were discussed but the band leaders said nothing definite about going it alone. The leaders now will report back to the band council.

During the city council meeting, North Cowichan's formal request for the sale of water in bulk to supply 60 properties in the Somenos Lake VLA subdivision was referred to the water committee for further study. The sale would end a long controversy.

Council voted to spend $8,000 to buy 37 single-head and 51 duplex-head parking meters to replace old downtown meters which RCMP Sgt. Tom Wilde said were being broken into repeatedly.

Approval in principle was given to the proposal of a Cobble Hill-Mill Bay group for "ad-gusts" bus transportation in that area.

Two meetings were called by aldermen — one with North Cowichan, the welfare office and the district family emergency service to discuss the service's request for a $200 grant.

The second will be with recreation groups in the city. North Cowichan, unorganized territory and Indian land and will discuss use of Wharfedale Road park for sports, specifically games of the new Cowichan Minor Football Association.

Probation Given To Store Thief

PORT ALBERNI — A sentence of 18 months on probation was imposed on Harry Florence in magistrate's court after he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft.

The charge involved the little Henry Co. store at the foot of Argyle, an often-burglarized building operated by Chinese near the waterfront.

Between $20 and $100 in silver was stolen this time.

Ronald Dale Koenders pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering and theft. The charge was laid after a window was smashed in the Sports and Auto Centre, Third Avenue North, and officials said a shotgun was missing from a window display.

Feb. 16 was set as the date for Koenders' trial.

Michael Noel Lambert was fined $200 for impaired driving after an accident involving a gas pump at a local garage. He pleaded guilty.

Harold Forsmo was fined $35 after he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by fighting. The accusation followed a complaint from a local hotel Feb. 6.

Two Open Tow

Ribbon was cut on Forbidden Plateau Sunday by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell and Snow Queen Sandra Orchard of Courtenay Teen Town, to open Mt. Becher T-bar ski tow and wind up Comox Valley winter carnival. Courtenay recreation chief Herb Bradley and T-bar builder Ernest Jensen made first official run on tow as 700 watched. Skiing-event winners were Laura Schiltz, Douglas Coleman, Joan Aveni, Lelf Garthuis and Retley Jones. — (Agnes Flett)

Delivery Missed

Kyuquot Asks Harbor Action

KYUQUOT — Residents of this west coast community, unhappy over a recent incident involving the Northland Navigation Co. vessel Tahsis Prince, plan to ask Ottawa to speed up a harbor project.

The public works department will be asked to start as soon as possible its proposed dredging of the harbor entrance, along with construction of docking facilities and a government freight shed.

UNLOADING REFUSED

The residents feel the project will solve the difficulties which caused Northland Navigation to refuse to load or unload freight during one of its weekly trips last month.

The Tahsis Prince, which services the Kyuquot district with mail, freight and supplies, discharged freight Jan. 24 at Fair Harbor, a regular stop.

But at Kyuquot, due to ice in the inlet outside the harbor, the community's freight boat could not get out to the Tahsis Prince for loading and unloading of the week's freight.

REQUEST REFUSED

The Tahsis Prince was asked to anchor outside the harbor for the job, a practice which has been followed under similar conditions in the past, but the request was refused.

As a result, B.C. Airlines had to be engaged to fly perishables, frozen goods and mail in to Kyuquot.

M. Carr Harris, who moves Kyuquot freight from Fair Harbor, later lodged a protest with Northland Navigation.

At that figure, I doubt that

Equipment will be placed underground.

"It doesn't look too likely," said Ald. MacDonald.

However, Mr. Burns, Frank Hanna, Mr. Leonard and project engineer Bruce Tait will investigate underground services further.

Mr. Tait said fill and rock work at the inlet is almost finished, and added:

"Unless we have more drastic weather, the project will be completed by the end of the winter-works period."

In other city business news, all downtown merchants have been invited to attend a meeting in the Eagles Hall at 10 a.m. today on the six-day shopping week issue, touched off by city approval of a longer week for three building supply firms.

Mr. Burns proposed the meeting, which may form a downtown businessmen's association.

Commercial Inlet

Project Parking Likely to Cost Nanaimo Drivers

NANAIMO — Free parking and underground services are unlikely at the Commercial Inlet development project, it was learned Monday during a meeting of the Gordon Street development committee.

Committee members also indicated comprehensive revision of traffic regulations for the business district may be a sidelight of the inlet project, which will provide 211 parking spaces.

The committee decided to meet Feb. 18 to discuss projected effects of parking trends the development will bring.

SURVEY DISCLOSED

The word against free parking came after former alderman Halg Burns disclosed he and co-chairman Alan Fletcher made a survey of city parking late last year.

The committee decided this survey will form the basis of an "immediate study" of parking requested by Ald. Burns MacDonald.

City engineer Arthur Leonard said B.C. Hydro estimates underground services will cost almost $80,000 and added:

"At that figure, I doubt that equipment will be placed underground."

"It doesn't look too likely," said Ald. MacDonald.

However, Mr. Burns, Frank Hanna, Mr. Leonard and project engineer Bruce Tait will investigate underground services further.

Mr. Tait said fill and rock work at the inlet is almost finished, and added:

"Unless we have more drastic weather, the project will be completed by the end of the winter-works period."

"These are people, and it is better that they should do their drinking there than have a series of fatalities on that road (from Campbell River)."

'Politically Honest'

Strachan Quells Rumor He Ignores Highway Needs

Opposition leader Robert Strachan finally laid to rest Monday the ugly rumor that he ignores the highway needs of the north end of Vancouver Island.

He told the legislature this was the impression left with members when Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell quoted from an account of one of Mr. Strachan's speeches in Alert Bay last May.

Mr. Strachan said he wrote a letter to the editor of the Pioneer Journal pointing out he had been misrepresented.

The editor published his letter June 10 along with the comment that "I was politically honest," the opposition leader said.

He said Mr. Campbell knew about this published letter when he spoke last week.

After his explanation, Mr. Strachan told the house anyone who repeated the mis-statement in the future was a "worthless scoundrel."

Mr. Strachan said he told the Alert Bay meeting that upon the government completed its Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert ferry link it would probably be 15 years or more before Social Credit got around to building a promised highway to their community.

The report of the Alert Bay meeting failed to convey that he had answered a question as to how the NDP would stand on the highway link, by telling the audience it was not his policy to "go around the province making political promises."

"I said that I was not in a position to decide whether the highway was economically feasible," said Mr. Strachan. "I was being politically honest and I think all politicians should be the same."

Tory Decision Spurs Insults

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard Thrasher, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, and Quebec leader Leon Balcer traded insults Monday about the weekend decision to reject a leadership convention over John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Thrasher, commenting on Mr. Balcer's call Sunday for a scrutiny of ballots filled in by the national executive, accused the Quebec leader of "despicable treachery" and a lack of guts.

He said to suggest the rejection of a leadership convention ran counter to the trend of the meeting questions the integrity of him and the two other men who made the tabulation.

IN CONFLICT

"While I don't speak for the others, I say to those who make such insinuations and innuendos—they are false, you engage in despicable treachery and undermine confidence in our association and the party as a whole," Mr. Thrasher said.

Informed of Mr. Thrasher's comment, Mr. Balcer shot back: "Poor little boy. If he is so pure why doesn't he publish the figures?"

Party President Dalton K. Camp announced Sunday that a leadership convention had been rejected.

Mr. Balcer, who initiated the move for the executive meeting and wants Mr. Diefenbaker replaced, said the decision was in conflict with the trend of Saturday's meeting.

"I trust Mr. Diefenbaker will have no objection to the examination of the complete figures and the voting slips on which they are based," he said.

DC-7: Tragedy and near-miss

91 Escape Flaming Death

TENERIFE, Canary Islands (UPI)—A chartered DC-7 airliner with 91 people aboard burst into flames Monday after an aborted take-off at Los Rodeos Airport.

Airport officials said the plane was destroyed. Seven people reportedly suffered slight injuries.

NEW YORK (AP)—An Eastern Air Lines propeller-driven airliner with 84 persons aboard crashed into the Atlantic ocean with fiery impact Monday night, minutes after takeoff from Kennedy Airport.

Not until four hours later was the first body recovered from the dark, ice-cold waters about 14 miles from the airport.

A fishing boat, the Jessy Lou, came across it. There was no trace of survivors in what apparently was the worst U.S. air disaster in nearly a year.

Cause of the crash was a mystery. The crew of the four-engine DC-7B gave no inkling of any impending trouble prior to the crash off Long Island's south shore.

"ALL NORMAL"

Chris Walk, a spokesman for the federal aviation agency, said: "We have no information to indicate sabotage, bombing or anything of the sort. Weather was not a factor in this crash. Everything was normal as far as we know at this time."

Witnesses reported seeing the plane explode in the air, then disappear into the sea beneath a funeral pyre of orange flames.

ONLY OIL SLICK

However, Walk declared: "The information that we have at this time does not indicate that there was any explosion or flames before the plane hit the water."

The plane was at about 3,500 feet when it plunged into the sea, leaving only an oil slick as an immediate mark of the disaster. Three hours later the first bits of wreckage were recovered: some cushions, plastic bags and a section of fuselage.

CANADIAN GIRL

The site of the crash was eight miles off Jones Beach, a summer playground 35 miles from Manhattan.

One of the plane's two stewardesses was a Canadian—Judith Ann Durkin, 23, formerly of Ottawa. Other crew members were United States citizens and all passengers were believed U.S. as well.

Miss Durkin lived in Winthrop, Mass., but her parents still live in Ottawa.

In New York, an airline spokesman said there were no Americans or Canadians aboard.

Witnesses said the pilot managed to bring the crippled airliner to a halt and "with flames spreading, all passengers and the crew managed to get clear."

The plane was leased to a European charter company, Scanair, by the Scandinavian Airlines System.

The medical men found that the fillings in his teeth and a scar on his stomach matched those of the missing O'Connor.

Civilian O'Connor was released.

There was no explanation as to how the two O'Connors

happened to have the same health card number, a fact which the army spokesman said was "incredible, for a start."

In Dublin, the mother of the original O'Connor said her son came home on leave and "didn't bother to return." He intends to stay there, where the British army cannot touch him.

The premier wasn't in the House at the time, and Attorney-General Robert Bonner rose to object.

WASHINGTON (AP)—American and South Vietnamese warplanes rained bombs on Communist military camps in North Viet Nam again Monday amid signs of a strike-for-strike policy in the battle against Communist guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam.

U.S. congressional leaders indicated President Johnson and the National Security Council had decided to answer with air assaults any new Communist attacks on U.S. troops or installations in South Viet Nam.

While they would not talk for quotation, this clearly was their understanding after Johnson and his senior advisers got a report from McGeorge Bundy, a presidential aide who returned Sunday night from a special mission to South Viet Nam.

Monday's second wave of retaliatory action against North Viet Nam—the first attack was Sunday—left in flames Communist installations in three villages near the southern border.

President Johnson, who has declared the U.S. seeks no wider war in Viet Nam, vowed the U.S. will do anything necessary to preserve freedom.

Johnson, addressing a dozen boy scouts at the White House, did not mention South Viet Nam, but he said: "We shall take up any challenge, answer any threat, pay any price to make certain that freedom shall not perish from this earth."

From Soviet Premier Kossygin came a declaration it is the duty of his country, China and North Viet Nam "to strengthen the might and defensive capability" of Communist countries.

49 American Planes

In Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, Kossygin said the Soviet Union supports the Viet Cong guerrillas fighting U.S.-backed government troops in South Viet Nam.

At least 24 South Vietnamese planes and four U.S. jets carried out Monday's raid, on the heels of Sunday's attack by 49 American warplanes.

Johnson, his senior advisers and Republican and Democratic congressional leaders heard in White House secrecy the report of Bundy who is Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs.

Bundy, dispatched by the president before the new crisis began, was in South Viet Nam Saturday when Communist guerrillas assaulted a U.S. base at Pleiku, 240 miles north of the capital at Saigon.

Eight American soldiers were killed and more than 100 wounded. Communist forces attacked Soc Trang, 100 miles south of Saigon, Sunday night. Fifteen heavy mortar shells were lobbed into that U.S. installation, but there was no damage and no casualties were reported.

Bundy would not discuss with reporters the possibility of future strikes against North Viet Nam.

Bundy did say "it is also our judgment the primary area of conflict is in South Viet Nam. This is also the view of South Vietnamese leaders."

But he said the task is complicated by the fact that North Viet Nam is the centre of authority for guerrilla actions in the south.

U.S. School Closed

In Saigon, the school for American children closed its doors and dependents of U.S. personnel prepared to leave. Their orderly evacuation was ordered Sunday by President Johnson.

The first of 1,819 women and children will leave by commercial airliner today.

The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders, who sat in on the security council meeting, underscored their support of Johnson's stand.

Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.) said Johnson seeks to achieve stability, if possible, "so the South Vietnamese government can manage its own affairs within South Viet Nam."

"We're going to carry out our South Viet Nam our initial purpose and objective of aiding these people to retain their freedom," said Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep., Ill.).

The crisis and Johnson's orders to meet it appeared to have derailed a massive Republican attack on his policies in Southeast Asia.

U.S. officials said the Sunday air raiders slipped three targets because they were veiled by clouds. Monday's followup assault apparently smashed them.

The Pentagon said one U.S. navy jet was lost Sunday.

Veteran Astronaut Heads Gemini Crew

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Air Force Maj. L. Gordon Cooper, the most seasoned American space traveller, and Navy Lt.-Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. were selected Monday to fly a seven-day Gemini space flight.

Chosen as the backup crew were two civilians—Neil A. Armstrong and Elliott M. See. Both are former navy pilots.

Cooper was a member of the original seven-man Mercury astronaut crew.

To Make It Look Better

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett was accused in the legislature Monday of padding figures and shuffling percentages to make his 1965 budget look better.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said if any company promoter or stock and bond salesman used tactics and figures like that, he would go to jail.

The premier wasn't in the House at the time, and Attorney-General Robert Bonner rose to object.

"The leader of the opposition in his enthusiasm has reflected unfairly upon the premier, and I think he should reconsider," Mr. Bonner said.

Mr. Strachan, however, simply went on with his speech. He said in this budget Mr. Bennett outdid himself in self-delusion.

"He shuffled percentages, percentages of total budget, percentages of total income, percentages over 1952. He gave all these percentages in a variety of combinations of provincial departments," the opposition leader said.

'Waiting'

Peking Adds Warning

TOKYO (AP)—China coupled a pledge of support for Communist North Viet Nam with a threat Monday: "The U.S. imperialists must understand... the day you extend the aggressive war will be the day you hasten into the grave."

Peking's People's Daily backed up the warning against aggression by saying in an editorial: "To be frank, we are waiting for you in battle array. If you insist on imposing the war on us, heavy rebuffs are in store for you."

Kossygin Warning

The Soviet government, competing with Peking for friends and influence in Southeast Asia, also condemned the U.S.-South Vietnamese air strikes Sunday and Monday against North Viet Nam.

Premier Kossygin declared at a Soviet embassy reception in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, the situation is "fraught with serious complications, for which the United States of America will bear full responsibility."

The Soviet leader, who pledged Russian aid to North Viet Nam in a speech a few hours before Sunday's air strike

Everything About Pat Matched

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—For 13 months the British Army searched for Patrick O'Connor, 20, who deserted while serving with the army catering corps in West Germany in November, 1963.

Finally, through his national health insurance number, they tracked down Patrick O'Connor, 20, working for a London catering firm.

He told them they had the wrong man.

They investigated and every bit of information they uncovered checked with the record of the wanted man, simply reinforcing their conviction they had the right man.

Aside from the fact he had the national health number they were looking for and the same name, records also showed he was born in Southern Ireland and on the same date as the man they wanted.

When O'Connor persisted in his declaration of innocence, they sent him to hospital for a further check.

The medical men found that the fillings in his teeth and a scar on his stomach matched those of the missing O'Connor.

Civilian O'Connor was released.

There was no explanation as to how the two O'Connors happened to have the same health card number, a fact which the army spokesman said was "incredible, for a start."
